This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world’s books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that’s often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book’s long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google’s system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google “watermark” you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can’t offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book’s appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

THE REV. WILLIAM SHAW,

WESLEYAN MINISTER.

DEAR BROTHER,

My respected brethren in the ministry, as well as myself, feel that to no one could this, the first Kaffir Grammar ever printed, be inscribed with more propriety than to the first Wesleyan Missionary in Kaffraria.

We do not, however, view you merely as our Pioneer in the moral wilderness in which we labour; we have reason thankfully to acknowledge the measure of success with which the Divine blessing has accompanied your various plans for the extension of the work of God, both in the Colony, and among the tribes beyond the Colonial Frontier. While we ascribe the praise and glory to Him, to whom alone praise and glory are due, we feel no small pleasure in honouring you as the instrument by whose agency so much good has been effected; and we rejoice in this, that, in addition to the affectionate regards with which our private friendship would prompt us to address you, we are also bound highly to respect and honour you for your work's sake.

I remain,

For myself and brethren,
Your affectionate and obliged,

W. B. BOYCE.

INTRODUCTION.

The first Grammar of a language has peculiar claims on the indulgence of future labourers in the same field of inquiry. The man who has the moral courage to dare to expose at once the extent of his knowledge and of his ignorance, with no other object in view than that his colleagues and successors may profit by both, is entitled to a candid and courteous reception of his labours from the few who alone are qualified to form an estimate of their utility. Excepting the hope of being useful, there is nothing in South Africa to stimulate philological inquiry. The languages of the Aboriginal tribes offer no literary treasures for the amusement or edification of the student. A few war-songs are extant in every tribe: among the Amapondos, even satirical songs may be occasionally heard; and among the Amazulu, songs embodying sentiments indicative of a more than ordinary sensibility, are said to exist: but, generally speaking, the African intellect does not appear to advantage in the exercise of the imaginative faculties. In forensic debates, in legal pleas and cross-examinations, the native talent of a Kaffir and Mochuana appears to advantage, and no one can witness such displays of intellectual gladiatorship without being convinced that, in their case, intellect has not been affected by the distinction of colour or clime. In Europe no curiosity appears to exist among even the curious in philology respecting South-African dialects; as a proof of which, it is only necessary to refer to the article “Language,” in the seventh edition of the Encyclopædia Britannica published in 1836, in which the writer appears to have been totally unacquainted with the philological labours of the Portuguese Missionaries in Congo and Angola in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, as well as of more modern Missionaries in South Africa since the beginning of the present century. If the South-African dialects were mere barbarous jargons, unsusceptible of cultivation, and defying all attempts at systematization, some excuse might be made for voluntary ignorance, where knowledge would be productive of no profit; but since, on the contrary, these languages are regular in their formation, copious and harmonious in a high degree, and so peculiar in their construction as to have excited the curiosity of a writer so well known as the candid and learned Lichtenstein, one naturally expected, that in a work professing to give the results of the discoveries and inquiries of the last twenty years, some reference would be made, in an article devoted to Language, to the singularities of the dialects of South Africa, and the present state of our information respecting them. Under such circumstances of voluntary ignorance on the part of the learned, and of perfect indifference in all other quarters, the man who industriously devotes his energies to the labour of systematizing an African dialect, cannot expect to be cheered on his way by the scantiest portion of approbation from the literary organs and directors of public opinion. His task may be as difficult as the labour of unravelling half a dozen of the written dialects of India, where assistance from learned natives can easily be procured; but as his sphere of action is comparatively unnoticed and unknown, his industry is alike undervalued and unrewarded. In India, the Honourable Company patronize munificently every attempt to facilitate the acquaintance of the native tongues; and, what is of still greater importance, require of their civil servants a certain degree of familiarity with the languages of the people with whom they are obliged to have daily intercourse in the discharge of their official duties. In the Cape colony, men are sent to fill offices of importance in the civil and legal departments, who remain, during the whole period of their service, ignorant even of the Dutch language, spoken by a majority of the inhabitants of the colony; a respectable knowledge of which might be acquired in a few months. No wonder that the study of the native dialects has been quite neglected, and that all the important transactions between the colonial functionaries and the Kaffir and Bechuana tribes have been conducted through the medium of interpreters, who, until very lately, were chiefly selected from native convicts, undergoing, for various crimes, the doubtful process of reformation at Robben Island, the common receptacle of Cape irreclaimables. Within the last few years a more respectable class of native and
INTRODUCTION.

INTRODUCTION.

European interpreters has been raised up, on which the most perfect reliance can be placed. But yet it appears very strange that now, when abundant facilities are offered for the acquisition of the Kaffir and Sechuana languages, it should not have occurred to the British or colonial Governments to require a certain degree of knowledge of these languages as indispensable to all future candidates for official situations on the northern and eastern frontier. It would be a useful stimulus to the hitherto uncultivated talent of colonial youth, ambitious of civil employment, to be informed that some proof of mental ability was requisite to their admission into the civil service of the colony; and it is evidently the duty of the British and colonial Governments to demand of every candidate for office, in addition to the ordinary routine of a liberal education, a respectable knowledge of the two principal native languages, in cases where such knowledge would be advantageous to the public service.

The following remarks on the languages of South Africa may not be unacceptable to such as feel interested in similar inquiries.

In the present state of our information, it appears probable that all the languages of South Africa may be classed under two divisions or families. The first and most ancient, which was probably that spoken by the earliest inhabitants who found their way to this extremity of the globe, comprehends the dialects spoken by the Namacquas, Bushmen, Koranas, and Hottentots. These dialects (all of which, though differing from each other, are radically the same) were once spoken throughout all South Africa, as far as the Kei River; but now, within the old colonial border, Dutch has almost entirely supplanted them; and beyond the old border of the Kei, the Kaffirs having conquered that country from the Hottentot tribes, no trace of the Hottentot language remains, unless it be that the Kaffirs have adopted the disagreeable clicks from their Hottentot predecessors together with various words now naturalized in the Kaffir language.* Along the northern frontier of the colony, the Namaqua, Korana, and Bushmen dialects are yet spoken by a numerous although scattered population. These dialects are entirely different in grammatical construction from the Kaffir and Sechuana language: they abound in those peculiar and barbarous sounds called "clicks;" and, from their harshness, and the limited nature of their vocabularies, appear to be barriers in the way of religious and intellectual culture, and, as such, doomed to
INTRODUCTION.

* Some light has recently been thrown upon the origin of the Hottentot language, by a learned and laborious Missionary of the London Society, the Rev. Mr. Elliot, of Uitenhage. This gentleman has discovered that many words of the Hottentot language are Mongolian. The physical structure of this people certainly resembles that of the Mongolian races; and the additional proof derived from resemblance of language, will render a common origin more than probable. We may suppose that some of the large vessels from Eastern Asia had, in a remote period, been driven on the shores of South Africa, and that these shipwrecked strangers, intermarrying with the Bushmen Aborigines, (the Trogloodytes,) became the progenitors of the Hottentot tribes. Pliny describes the language of these tribes as "Stridor, non Vox," and places them in Ethiopia: scattered fragments of tribes as degraded as the Bushmen of South Africa, and resembling them in their hissing inarticulate speech, have been so far found in every part of Africa south of Abyssinia. extinction by the gradual progress of Christianity and civilisation. In the Namaqua dialect, the four Gospels have been translated by the Rev. Mr. Schme- len, of the London Missionary Society, whose wife, a pious native, was of great assistance to him in this laborious undertaking: they have been printed by the Bible Society. The learned Dr. Van der Kemp, the first Missionary sent by the London Society to the Cape, published at Bethelsdorp a part of a Catechism in the Hottentot dialect. The writer of the Kaffir Grammar, in the indulgence of his curiosity, once engaged in the task of compiling a sketch of the grammatical peculiarities of the Hottentot language, as spoken by the Gonaquas now scattered in Kaffir- land; but relinquished the undertaking in consequence of its apparent inutility: for it is evident that the prevalence of Dutch and English among the few tribes which yet speak these uncouth and inharmonious dialects will soon supersede the necessity of further literary labours, which in this language appear hitherto to have been more curious than useful.

The second division, or family, of the South African languages comprises the sister dialects spoken by the Kaffir and Bechuana tribes, to the east and north of the colony. That the relationship subsisting between the Kaffir and Sechuana is that of descent from a common parent is evident,* not only from the many words common to both, but from an almost perfect identity in the leading principles of grammatical construction, as will appear from a comparison of the Sechuana Grammar, by the Rev. J. Archbell, published in 1838, also Etudes sur la Langue Séchuana, par E. Casalis, Paris, 1841, with that of the Kaffir, published in 1834. Yet each dialect has peculiarities of its own, sufficient to oblige the learner to consider it, for all practical purposes of speech and composition, as a distinct language. Thus the Kaffir, as spoken on the colonial border, has adopted the Hotten-tot click, which is unknown in the Sechuana dialects, except the Sitlokwe, which most nearly resembles the Kaffir. The sound represented by the letter r is never heard in Kaffir, but is quite common in Sechuana. The most striking peculiarity of the Kaffir and Sechuana family of languages, is the euphonic or alliteral concord. With the exception of a few terminations in the cases of the noun, and tenses of the verb, the whole business of declension, conjugation, &c., is effected by prefixes, and by changes which take place in the initial letters or syllables of words subject to grammatical government. Now as these changes, in addition to the precision they communicate to the language, also promote its euphony, causing at the same time the frequent repetition of the same letter as initial to many words in a sentence, they, or rather the principles which regulate them, have been termed “the euphonic or alliteral concord.” In the languages spoken in Congo, Angola, and Loango, the same peculiarity was noticed by some of the Romish Missionaries in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, though they profess to regard it as an unaccountable philological vagary, defying all rule.

INTRODUCTION.

(See Pinkerton's "Collection of Voyages and Travels in Africa," 4to.) The "Grammar of the Bunda Language," spoken in Congo, acknowledges the existence of an extensive alliteration, produced by what we term "the euphonic concord," though the principle itself, and the rules for its application, had not been discovered. Many words, plainly of Arabic extraction, probably received through the Coptic, are found in Sechuana and Kaffir: in the latter, the frequent use of what grammarians technically term "epenthetic and paragogic letters or syllables," reminds the learner of a similar peculiarity in Hebrew and Arabic grammar.

Of the two sister languages, the Sechuana appears to prevail in the interior, while the Kaffir is principally confined to the Amaxosa, Abatembu, Amapondo, and Amazulu tribes, extending from the Great-Fish-River as far as Delagoa-Bay. A dialect of the Kaffir, as spoken by the Amazulu, is also the language of that small portion of the Amazulu which, under the Chief Matzili-katzi, wasted, a few years ago, the vast plains of Central Africa, near the Kuruman and Kurrichene. Kaffir and Sechuana, comprising a variety of dialects, only slightly differing from each other, appear to be branches of an extensive language spoken through all Africa, from the northern boundary of the Cape colony as far as the Equator. On the west coast of this extensive territory, the Damaras, a tribe visited by Mr. Archbell at Waalvisch-Bay, and again by the way of Great Namacqualand, speak a dialect of Sechuana. In Congo, Angola, and Loango, the languages spoken are evidently of the same class. The natives of Delagoa-Bay, the Makooa tribes, extending from 17° to 4° south latitude, the Sowauli or Sowaiel, who dwell beyond the Makooa, as far as 2° north latitude, the Monjou, who are supposed to be so far in the interior, as a two or three months' journey north-east from Mozambique, speak languages only slightly differing from the Sechuana spoken near the Cape colony. An Arab, who had travelled for commercial purposes from Mombas to Mozambique, at some distance from the sea-coast, gave the writer of this some specimens of the languages spoken among the tribes through which he had passed, in which Kaffir and Sechuana words were easily recognised. Natives conveyed from the interior to Mozambique, and from thence taken to the Bechuana country, have found no difficulty in making themselves understood; sufficient proof this of a radical identity of language. From 2° north latitude, the dialects of the Samauli, Galla, &c., are quite distinct from the Sechuana, and exhibit manifest proofs of an intimate connexion with the Ethiopic and Arabic languages. It is to be hoped that the Episcopal Missionaries now in Abyssinia will be encouraged to furnish grammars and vocabularies of the languages of the tribes by which they are surrounded, as such information would throw much light on the origin and migration of the African races. The following specimens of the vocabularies of the tribes, whose languages appear to resemble Sechuana and Kaffir, taken from Botelar's "Voyage on the East Coast," and Salt's work on Abyssinia and East Africa, will perhaps be deemed interesting:—

Some progress has been made towards the formation of a Kaffir and Sechuana literature, by the Missionaries of the various Societies occupying this field of labour. In Kaffir, the Wesleyan Missionaries have printed several elementary books, have translated the whole of the New Testament, and three-fourths of the Old. Isaiah, Joel, forty-five Psalms, two editions of the four Gospels, the Acts, and the Epistles of James, Peter, Jude, and John, have been already printed; a new edition of the New Testament, five thousand copies, is now printing. The British and Foreign Bible Society, by a munificent grant of five hundred reams of paper, have testified their regard for the best interests of the African races.* A Kaffir Grammar, in a thin quarto volume, has been printed at the Wesleyan press, of which a new edition, with considerable additions and improvements, is now published. A Kaffir Dictionary is also in the press. The Missionaries of the Glasgow Society have translated a considerable portion of the New Testament, and have printed, in Cape-Town, an edition of the Gospel of St. Matthew. Two versions of the Scriptures in one language may, at first sight, appear undesirable; but, considering that these translations are first translations, the additional expense incurred is nothing, when set in competition with the additional facilities afforded by the existence of two independent versions for the compilation of a standard edition at some future period. The first elementary books in the Kaffir language were printed by the Glasgow Missionaries; and a few pages of a vocabulary were also printed, but never completed.

In Sechuana, the Missionaries of the London, Wesleyan, and Paris Societies have printed some elementary works. The Gospel of St. Luke has been translated and printed by the Rev. Mr. Moffat, the other Gospels by the French Missionaries; the Scripture extracts of the British and Foreign School Society have also been translated and printed by the London Society's Missionaries, to the general accuracy of which Mr. Archbell, the author of the Sechuana Grammar, has borne honourable testimony.

The importance of the Kaffir and Sechuana languages, as opening to us the means of communicating with all the tribes of Africa south of the Equator, renders every attempt to facilitate their acquisition interesting to the merchants and traders of the Cape colony. As a medium for the communication of divine truth, the Sechuana, from the extensive range of its influence, has peculiar claims on the attention of the British and Foreign Bible Society. A Kaffir and Sechuana version of the sacred Scriptures would form the basis of many others, spoken by some millions of the human race. Along the line of coast from Delagoa-Bay to Cape Delgado, in 10° south, the influence of the Portuguese is unfavourable to any efforts towards the mental and moral improvement of the native tribes in the interior; and it is questionable whether access to them would be permitted. Beyond Cape Delgado, the influence of Imaum of Muscat, the friend and ally of the British Government, might undoubtedy be exerted to facilitate British intercourse with the interior. It cannot be expected that a Mohammedan power should be very favourable to Missionary exertions; but much might be done preparatory to any direct attempt at preaching the Gospel. We much want to ascertain the moral statistics of South-Eastern Africa, the peculiarities of the dialects spoken, and to prepare the way for their acquisition by grammars and vocabularies, in which one uniform alphabetical system should be used. Versions of select portions of the Scriptures might be attempted, which, though very inferior to subsequent efforts, would be invaluable helps to future Missionaries.

It is high time the attention of the Christian public should be called to the consideration of the claims of South-East Africa. The East and West Indies, Western Africa, America, China, Australia, and Polynesia have received such a degree of attention as the means of the various religious Societies have been able to supply; but few Missionaries have been sent to explore the vast extent of country between Delagoa-Bay and the Red Sea. The Mohammedan faith, under the patronage of the Imaum of Muscat, is rapidly spreading from the commercial depôts on the coast into the interior. It is to be hoped that the enterprise of the merchants and traders of the Cape colony, especially if aided by steam navigation, will soon make the whole line of coast, as far as Abyssinia, as familiar to the enterprising youth of this colony as Kaffirland and the Bechuana country now are. The risk of a voyage to Zanzibar at certain seasons, is not so great as that attending a journey to the Bechuanas: and the superior enterprise and natural facilities afforded by the Cape colony would soon enable British merchants to compete on fair terms with the Arabs of Muscat, and the Banyans of Bombay. The extension of British trade and influence would afford openings for Missionary labour, of which many zealous men would be ready to avail themselves. The Missionary Societies now occupying Southern Africa must be directed to consider their present operations but as stepping-stones to a still wider and more important sphere of operations: and, above all, prayer must be made before God continually, that it may please Him to hasten the time when "Ethiopia shall stretch out her hands unto God."

TO THE SECOND EDITION.

When the Rev. William J. Davis was about to visit England in the year 1839, he was requested to superintend the printing and publication of a new edition of the Rev. William Boyce’s Kaffir Grammar. That office of friendship he performed in a manner highly creditable to himself, and introduced, in various portions of the work, some important improvements; which would have been still more ample, had not his brief sojourn in this country prevented the completion of his wishes. After his return to Africa, he transmitted for insertion the “Analytical Compendium of Kaffir Grammar,” in three Synoptical Tables, with explanatory notes, which are now prefixed to the Grammar, and which will convey to the reader a clear view of the peculiar genius and curious construction of this ancient and very refined language.

ANALYTICAL COMPREHEND OF KAFFIR GRAMMAR.
EXPLANATORY NOTES.

I. OF NOUNS.

1. Of Genders.—The place of genders is supplied in Kafir by certain prefixes to the nouns; which prefixes have the same influence on the Kafir language as the distinction of genders usually has on language in general. These prefixes are seen in column II. of the above table. Column I. contains the number referring to each prefix, which is called the number of its declension: they are thus numbered for the sake of the more readily referring to each prefix. Declension I. contains personal nouns only.

2. Of Number.—The plural is formed from the singular by a change of prefix. Declensions Nos. I. to VI. are singular, Nos. VII. and VIII. are both singular and plural, and Nos. IX. to XII. are plural. The plural prefix into which each singular prefix is changed is placed opposite the singular, and printed in Italics.

3. Column III. contains the euphonic letter belonging to each declension of nouns; which, when prefixed to nouns, forms the genitive case. When so prefixed, the initial vowel of the noun in the genitive undergoes a slight change; thus i and u are changed into e and o, but a changes not; as :-

DEC.
I. U-mtu e-enkosi ...... A man of the captain.
IV. Isi-tya o-omtu ........ A basket of the man.
X. Inyau e-amahashe ... Feet of the horses.

It will be seen by the above table how much the speaking of the language with accuracy depends on the proper use of the euphonic letter, as in almost every column belonging either to nouns, adjectives, or pronouns, nearly the whole of the various changes in declining these different parts of speech are effected by its use. Especially is this the case in the table of the third person of personal pronouns, and that of nouns with the possessive of relative pronouns before them.

4. In column IV. is seen the verb substantive prefixed to nouns. When so prefixed, it gives the sense of “it is,” and “it is done by,” as : Dec. IV. Sisi-tya, “It is a basket.” Dec. II. Sifundiswa ti-lizwi lika Tixo, “We are taught by God’s word.”

5. The forms found under the prefix I., No. VIII., which are printed in Italics, when prefixed to the forms in column IV., place nouns in apposition; as: Dec. I. Umtu oyinkosi, "The man who is the captain." Dec. III. Igosa eNhilile, "The steward who is the chief." The past and future is expressed by inserting be in the past, and yakeba in the future, between the forms in column VIII., prefix I., and the forms in column IV.; thus: Umtu obiyinkosi, "The man who was the captain." Umtu yakebalise, "The man who will be a thief."
EXPLANATORY NOTES.

II. OF ADJECTIVES.

1. The proper adjectives have the prefixes in, im, and i, (see column VI.,) and are united to nouns by the relative pronoun and verb-substantive of each declension, as exemplified in column VI.; as: Dec. II. Ihashe eKulu, "The horse which is great."

2. The present perfect tense of neuter verbs with the relative pronoun prefixed is used adjectively; (see verbs;) as: Ihashe eNkalayo, "The horse that is dead;" for, "A dead horse."

III. OF PRONOUNS.

1. In column VII. is seen the influence which the prefixes have on the third person of personal pronouns; where it will be seen that, exclusive of the possessive case, the third person takes sixty-two different forms, which forms it takes according to the prefix of the declension to which it belongs. The possessive pronouns are formed by prefixing the euphonic letter of the noun to which they refer (see column III.) to the genitive case found in column VII.; as: Ubukosi beyo, "His captainship," referring to Inkosi. Inkomo sabo, "Their cattle," referring to abantu. Here the z in sabo is the euphonic letter of Inkomo, the prefix being in, declension XI., and abo is the genitive of the prefix ab, declension VIII. Thus the possessive pronoun takes eighty different forms; these, with sixty-two changes in the other cases, make a total of one hundred and forty-two in the declension of the third person of personal pronouns.

2. The forms in column VIII. are used for the oblique case of the relative pronoun "whose:" the rule is,—The initial vowel of the noun following the relative and verb-substantive is dropped, and the forms found under the prefix i in column VIII. are prefixed according to the declension of the antecedent; and the accusative of the personal pronoun referring to the noun forming the relative "whose," found in column VII., is inserted in the verb; as: Ihashe eNkama 'ndi li tindayo, "The horse whose name I love." Umtu omikwa 'ndi yi tindayo, "The man whose ways I love."

EXPLANATORY NOTES.

I.

1. COLUMN I. preceding table I., contains the euphonic letter of each declension. In column II. is seen the pronominal prefixes of the third person, which are used in the conjugation of each tense of the verb. In the above tables, (II., III.) only two of the declensions are used as the model, namely, declensions II. and XI. These are printed in Italics. The other prefixes, seen in column II., are used in precisely the same manner as the model, excepting in some few instances. These exceptions are noticed under each tense where they occur. The root of the verb is the third person singular of the imperative mood, which, to save room, is printed at the head of each column of prefixes. The changes which take place in the termination of the root are printed in Italics.

2. Column III. contains the pronominal negative prefixes, which are used in the same manner as the affirmative prefixes in column II.

3. In column IV. is seen the accusative of the personal pronoun of each declension, which is inserted in the verb immediately before the root; thus:—

 DEC.
I. Diyaauata... I love him, referring to a noun with the prefix um.
II. Diyaauata... I love it, referring to a noun with the prefix 1 or 111.
X. Uyauata... Thou lovest them, referring to a noun with the prefix ama.

4. Where there was space, an analysis of each tense is given at the bottom of the tabular form.

5. The prefixes of the perfect tenses, both present, past, and future, are the same as the imperfect, both affirmative and negative, from which tenses they differ only in the terminating vowel being changed into IE; as:—

Bendi tanda... I was loving.         Bendi tandile... I had loved.

Optative Mood.

"I wish I could love."

The pronominal prefixes found in column II. are inserted in this form; thus:—

Dinga una-tanda ...... I wish thou wouldest love, referring to Dec. I.
Dinga ùnga-tanda ...... I wish it would love, referring to Dec. II.
II. OF IRREGULAR VERBS.

1. Irregular verbs are those which have but one syllable following ukú, the sign of the infinitive, and prefix ri to that syllable in the second person of the imperative mood.

2. In each mood the imperfect tenses of the irregular verb, both present, past, and future, insert si between the affirmative prefixes and the verb; as:—

Present Imperfect Tense.
Di siva …… I hearing; not Di va.

Past Imperfect Tense.
Bendi siza …… I was coming; not Bendi za.

3. All those prefixes which in the conjugation of a regular verb end in a, are changed into e in the conjugation of irregular verbs which have roots commencing in v, z, or m; as:—

Present Indefinite Tense.
Diye va …… I hear; not Diya va.

Past Indefinite Tense.
We va …… Thou didst hear; not Wa va.

III. OF VOWEL VERBS.

1. A vowel verb is one which has ukw in the infinitive followed by a vowel, and which prefixes r to that vowel in forming the second person singular of the imperative mood; as:—

Yaka …… Build thou.       Yoyika …… Fear thou.

The vowels which thus follow ukw are a, e, and o; as:—
Ukwaka … To build.    Ukwenda … To make.    Ukwoyika … To fear.

2. In conjugating regular verbs all the prefixes end in vowels. These vowels are dropped in the conjugation of a vowel verb, and the vowel which commences the root of the verb (whether a, e, or o) used in its place; as:—

Present Indefinite Tense.
Diyaka ……… I build.     Andaki ……… I build not.
Diyenda ……… I make.     Andenzi ……… I make not.
Diyoyika ……… I fear.    Andoyika ……… I fear not.

But when the accusative (see column IV.) is inserted in vowel verbs the vowel of the accusative is dropped, and not that of the prefix; as: Diya toyika, “I fear it,” referring to a noun with the prefix i or ili, and not Diya li oyika.
5. It may be useful to observe, that p, t, v, f, h, together with the clicks and the guttural are never used in the inflections of words, but are always radicals.

GUTTURAL.

6. The guttural, r, has two sounds: one soft, like the Dutch g, heard in the Kaffir word “rola;” another harsh and peculiarly deep-toned, as in the word “irara.”

The sound of r, as it is found in other languages, does not exist in Kaffir; and when the Kaffirs attempt to pronounce it, they invariably give the sound of l: in words of foreign origin, it is sounded as the English.

CLICKS.

7. The letters c, q, x, represent sounds which can be learned only from a native, and which, perhaps, will never be properly pronounced by an adult European who has not acquired them in his youth: c is called the dental, because, in articulating it, the tongue is placed against the front teeth; q is called the palatal, as it requires the tip of the tongue to be turned up to the palate; x is called the lateral, as it is articulated at the sides of the mouth.

8. The sounds which c and q represent in English are supplied in Kaffir by ks and kw. The sound of x English, as heard in ex, is not found in Kaffir.
9. The diphthongs are au, ai, ei, oi, as follows:—

au pronounced as ow in the English word howl and in the Kaffir word gaula ai .......... i................. wine ................. hai ei .......... ei ................. eight ................. weiza oi .......... oy ................. boy ................. oi (!)

But the diphthongal sound of the three latter is doubtful.

COMPOUND CONSONANTS.

10. The consonants, the clicks, and the guttural combine with each other. The following are the principal which occur:—

bh as in the Kaffir word bhala cw ......................... cwecula gc ......................... gcina gcw ........................ ingcwele nc ........................ nceda ncw ........................ nowaba qw ........................ qwesha gq ......................... gqita gqw ........................ igqwihra nq ........................ nqina nqw ........................ nqwaba xw ........................ xwila gx ........................ gxota gxw ........................ gxwala nx ........................ nxama nxw ........................ nxwema rw ......................... rweca xr ........................ xrela dw ........................ dwila dy ........................ dyoba dyw ........................ dywaba gw ........................ gwoba gy ........................ indyebo hl as in the Kaffir word umhla hw .................. ihlwempu
th  .................. inthlwini thlu  .................. inthlu hw .................. umhwahwalala jw .................. ijwaba khl .................. inkhliziyo kw .................. kwela lw .................. lwenu nhy .................. inhyobo nhyw .................. inhyweba nw .................. inwele ny .................. nyuka ah .................. shushu shw .................. ishweshwe sw .................. umswi ts .................. intsika tsh .................. tabisa tshw .................. tswila tsw .................. tswina tw .................. itwecu ty .................. ityala tyw .................. tywila zw .................. ilizwe

There is a peculiar sound heard in a few words, which, perhaps, is occasioned by the coalescence of two clicks, and may be thus written:—

imunqeu: sour, brack qcamata: stick

The Missionaries of the Glasgow Society use dzh for j,—dzhendzhanina, tl for thl, as, amantla: but the variation in the systems of orthography are so trifling as to cause no difficulty to the learner.

For examples of the various sounds, see the Scriptures now in great part translated into Kaffir, and the other publications which have issued from the Wesleyan Mission press at Graham's Town.
THE KAFFIR LANGUAGE. 5

ACCENT.

11. The accent is always on the penultimate, with some few exceptions: in compound words there is also a secondary accent, very slight, upon that syllable of the first word which would have taken the accent, if standing alone.

SYLLABIFICATION.

12. No consonant ends a syllable, except m and n. These letters seldom end a syllable, except as prefixes to nouns. The Zulus generally add the sound of u to the syllables which in Kaffir end with m, and the Kaffirs frequently do the same: thus, Uku mka, “To depart,” is frequently pronounced Uku muka; Uku gqamla, “To cut off,” is frequently pronounced Uku gqamula.

READING.

13. In reading Kaffir, observe, that every letter is sounded; that the ringing sound of n is always heard (though not always written) before d, g, or j, when initial in a word which does not commence a sentence: thus, Di de di fike is pronounced di de ndi fike. This is also the case in compound words, and in all the tenses of the verb where d or g occur in a compound prefix: thus, in Ku njenga nina? “How is it?” the letter n is inserted before the j: in (Uya ku ndi beta), “You are going to beat me,” and in Di nge hambe, “I cannot go,” the letter n is inserted before d and g.
SECTION II.

DIVISION AND DERIVATION OF WORDS, &c.

1. The usual division of words into nine classes, namely, the article, noun, adjective, pronoun, verb, adverb, preposition, conjunction, and interjection, suits with equal propriety the words of the Kaffir language.

2. Properly speaking, there is no article in the Kaffir; but its place is supplied by the prefixes of the nouns and the demonstrative pronoun. The prefixes (see nouns) are analogous to what is usually termed "the indefinite article," a or an. The demonstrative pronoun is used to express emphasis or distinction; and more resembles the Latin hic, than the English definite article "the."

3. The adjectives of the Kaffir language are very few; and in their prefixes resemble the noun-substantives. Certain forms of the verb are used as adjectives, and are subject to all the changes of prefix to which adjectives are subject in their union with the nouns which they qualify.

4. The second person singular of the imperative mood of the verb may be considered as the root from which the other words, especially the nouns, are derived. By prefixes to this part of the verb, and sometimes by a slight change in termination, the Kaffirs form nouns verbal, abstract, concrete, &c., which, though never heard as nouns before in that form, would be readily understood by every Kaffir who understood the meaning of the word from whence they are derived: thus, from
THE KAFFIR LANGUAGE.

Umshambi, "a walker;"
Hamba, "walk;" ................come, Uxuhamba, "to walk, or a walking."

Lumka, "beware, or take care;" ...... Unulumko, "wisdom, Umlumki, or ilumko, "a wise man."

EUPHONIC CONCORD.

5. The Kaffir language is distinguished by one peculiarity, which immediately strikes a student whose views of language have been formed upon the examples afforded by the inflected languages of ancient and modern Europe. With the exception of a change of termination in the ablative case of the noun, and five changes of which the verb is susceptible in its principal tenses, the whole business of declension, conjugation, &c., is carried on by prefixes, and by the changes which take place in the initial letters or syllables of words subject to grammatical government. As these changes, in addition to the precision they communicate to the language, promote its euphony, and cause the frequent repetition of the same letter as initial to many words in a sentence, this peculiarity, upon which the whole grammar of the language depends, has been termed the EUPHONIC OF ALLITERAL CONCORD.

GENDERS.

6. The distinction of genders, which are of so much importance in the grammars of most languages, has but little influence in the Kaffir language: only four prefixes, out of fifteen by which the forms of the nouns are distinguished, vary in their plurals, and only two in their government, according as they apply to persons or things; in all other cases, the prefix of the noun, not its meaning, determines the changes which must take place in its adjective, pronoun, or verb.

7. Two distinctions of gender may be noticed: persons, including both sexes; things, or neuters. But this division is of no use in the grammar of the language, except in reference to the two prefixes above mentioned. (See nouns.)

SECTION III.

NOUNS.

1. Nouns are distinguished by prefixes: these prefixes are, u, um, i, ili, in, im, isi, ulu, ubu, uku, o, ama, izin, izi, imi.

2. The prefixes are numbered according to the number of the declension of the noun to which the prefix belongs. By this means, they are easy of reference; which is of no small importance, considering the extensive influence which the prefixes exercise over all the declinable parts of speech, and that nearly the whole of the grammatical construction of the language depends upon them.

CLASSIFICATION OF NOUNS.

3. Nouns may be divided into twelve classes or declensions, eight of which comprise the singular prefixes, and four those of the plural.

(1.) The first declension contains nouns of the personal gender beginning with the prefixes u and um. Nouns of this declension take w for their euphonic letter.

(2.) The second declension contains nouns beginning with the prefixes i and ii. Nouns of this declension take l for their euphonic letter.

(3.) The third declension contains nouns beginning with the prefixes in and im. Nouns of this declension take y for their euphonic letter.

(4.) The fourth declension contains nouns beginning with the prefix isi. Nouns of this declension take s for their euphonic letter.

(5.) The fifth declension contains nouns of the neuter gender beginning with the prefix u, and nouns beginning with the prefix ulu. Nouns of this declension take lw for their euphonic syllable; but sometimes the sound of l only is heard.

(6.) The sixth declension contains nouns of the neuter gender beginning with the prefix um. Nouns of this declension take w for their euphonic letter. The necessity of separating this from the first declension will be seen when the pronouns and verbs are under consideration.

(7.) The seventh declension contains nouns beginning with the prefix ubu. Nouns of this declension take b for their euphonic letter.

(8.) The eighth declension contains nouns beginning with the prefix ukuy; sometimes, in the infinitives of verbs, ukuy. Nouns of this declension take kw for their euphonic syllable; but sometimes the sound of k only is heard.

The four following declensions contain nouns in the plural number only.
(9.) The ninth declension contains plural nouns beginning with the prefixes o and aba. Nouns of this declension take $b$ for their euphonic letter.

(10.) The tenth declension contains plural nouns beginning with the prefix ama. Nouns of this declension take $a$ for their euphonic letter; but it must be observed, that this euphonic letter is usually found to coalesce with the vowels before which, by grammatical rule, it ought to be placed, and, by this means, it changes u into o, and i into e: the other vowels, $a$, $e$, $o$, are uninfluenced by it, excepting that they are, in such cases, pronounced with a stronger, broader sound, which may be mistaken for the sound of w.

(11.) The eleventh declension contains plural nouns beginning with the prefixes in, im, izi, izin, and izim. Nouns of this declension take z for their euphonic letter.

(12.) The twelfth declension contains plural nouns beginning with the prefix iml. Nouns of this declension take $v$ for their euphonic letter.

4. Care must be taken not to confound the seventh with the ninth declension, or the third with the twelfth declension: the observation under the sixth declension applies to all these cases.

5. There are a few apparent exceptions to these rules; but they are only apparent, not real ones. These apparent exceptions are contractions, thus: isonka and isanthla take $s$ for their euphonic letter; though, at first sight, they appear to belong to the second declension, they in reality belong to the fourth, being contractions from the prefix isl. So also the words utyani, utyalwa, take $b$ for their euphonic letter: though they appear to belong to the fifth declension, they belong to the seventh, being contractions from ubutyani, ubutyalwa. In all cases where n follows i, and precedes a click, of which it forms a part, as in the word INQINA, there is a danger of considering such words as belonging to the third declension, whereas they belong to the second, the prefix being i, and not in.

6. It will be necessary to bear in mind, that the Dutch and the English words which have been introduced into the Kaffir language, as names for objects with which the Kaffirs were previously unacquainted, usually take the prefix i, with the euphonic letter of the prefix in. To avoid endless mistakes, and to guard as much as possible against the introduction of numerous anomalies in the syntax of the language, it is desirable that Missionaries and others, in translating the Scriptures, should prefix um singular, and aba plural, to the names of sects, offices, &c., as um-Priest, um-Pharisee; aba-Priest, aba-Levite.

The above classification of nouns should be carefully committed to memory, as each declension is connected in a peculiar manner with its pronoun, adjective, verb, and with other nouns in the genitive case, or in apposition.

NUMBER OF NOUNS.

7. The plural is formed from the singular, by a change of prefix. The first, second, third, fourth, fifth, and sixth declensions are singular; the seventh and eighth are both singular and plural; and the ninth, tenth, eleventh, and twelfth are plural.
FORMATIONS OF THE PLURAL.

8. The singular prefixes change into the plural in the following manner:—

DECLENSION.

I. um into aba: as, um-tu, a person; aba-ntu, persons.
   u ...... o: as, u-Faku, Faku; o-Faku, the Faku.

II. i ...... ama: as, i-hash, a horse; ama-hash, horses.
    ili ... ama: as, ili-zwi, a word; ama-zwi, words.

III. in ...... izin: as, in-hlu, a house; izin-hlu, houses.
    im...... izim: as, im-azi, a cow; izim-azi, cows.

IV. isi ...... izi: as, isi-tya, a basket; izi-tya, baskets.

V. ulu ...... izin: as, ulu-ti, a rod; izin-ti, rods.
   (See Remark III. following this paragraph.)

VI. um ...... imi: as, um-lambo, a river; imi-lambo, rivers.

Remark I. The prefixes, in, im, belonging to the third declension are commonly the same in the plural as in the singular, in which case they may be considered as belonging to the eleventh, the euphonic letter of which they then assume; thus: Inkosi yam, "My captain," Imazi yam, "My cow," become, in the plural, according to the eleventh declension, Inkosi zam, "My captains," Imazi zam, "My cows."

Remark II. When the prefix in (the third declension) is attached to nouns to which belongs distinction of sex, the plural is formed in ama, thus:—

In-doda, man; ama-doda, men.
In-kazana, girl; ama-kazana, girls.
In-kwenkwe, boy; ama-kwenkwe, boys.

Remark III. The prefix u (the fifth declension) forms its plural variously:—

First. Some nouns form their plural in o, as: U-nomeva, "A wasp;" O-nomeva, "Wasps." These nouns follow, in the singular, the analogies of nouns in the first declension, and, in the plural, those of the ninth.

Second. Some nouns form their plural in ı, as: U-lwimi, "Tongue;" I-lwimi, "Tongues;" Un-cedo, "Help;" I Incedo, "Helps." This form of the plural follows the analogies of the eleventh declension, as: Ilwimi zam, "My tongues."

Third. Some nouns form their plural in in and im, as: U-bambo, "Rib;" Im-bambo, "Ribs;" U-tango, "A hedge;" In-tango, "Hedges." These plurals also belong to the eleventh declension.

Fourth. The following are examples of nouns in the fifth declension, which take o in the plural:—

USELONS ........... The Ceylon pumpkin.
Unomeva ........... The wasp.
Uxam.............. The guana.
Unomadudwane The scorpion.
Umbona ............ Indian corn.
Ugzan ............ A caldron with three legs.
Unyima ............ The garnet-bead.
Ungeshe ........... Striped ear-bead.
Udade ............. Sister.

Fifth. The following are examples of nouns in the fifth declension, which take ı in the plural:—

Ulwimi... tongue.
Ulwanhle sea.

and all nouns which have the prefix u, followed by lwo.

Sixth. The following are examples of nouns in the fifth declension, which take in or im in the plural:—

Usana, an infant.
Usapo, a child.
GRAMMAR OF

utango, a hedge.
upau, a sign.
ubambo, a rib.

Remark IV. The Kaffirs frequently in conversation personify words, by prefixing to them u: these form their plural in o:—

SINGULAR.
PLURAL.
U-ewe wako, Thy Yes; o-ewe bako, thy Yeses.
U-noko wako, Thy Nevertheless; o-noko bako, thy Nevertheless.

GENDERS OF NOUNS.

9. The distinction of personal and neuter gender is sufficient for the regulation of grammatical construction, as the distinction between masculine and feminine has no influence, and is of no service in the grammar of the language. The personal gender includes the masculine and feminine; the feminine is sometimes distinguished from the masculine by the termination kazi, but more frequently by the use of a different word, as:

MASCULINE. FEMININE.
Ihashe, a horse; ihashe-kazi, a mare.
Inkosi, a chief; inkosi-kazi, a chief's wife.
Inja, a dog; inja-kazi, a bitch.

10. There is a peculiarity in the words for father and mother which must be noticed.

MASCULINE. FEMININE.
Ubarwa, my father; uma, my mother.
Uyishlo, thy father; unyoko, thy mother.
Uyise, his father; unina, his mother.

11. The student need pay but little attention to the subject of genders, as the prefixes of nouns have, in Kaffir, precisely the same influence as the gender of nouns in the inflected languages of ancient and modern Europe: thus, inhlu, a house, inkasana, a girl, and indoda, a man, as antecedents of a pronoun, take the very same pronominal form, although in English the pronouns would distinguish the sex. Thus, in English, it, she, he, would be the pronouns employed to distinguish between house, girl, and man, while in Kaffir the distinction of sex is lost sight of in the form of the word, which alone is the subject of grammatical government, and yona, (it,) agreeing with the prefix in, is employed. In the genitive, where, in this case, in English, its, hers, his, would be used, the Kaffir ayo, referring to yona, is alone necessary; and in the accusative, the English it, her, him, is, for the same reason, simply supplied by yi, the accusative of yona.

CASES OF NOUNS.

12. The distinction of case is chiefly observable in the genitive, vocative, and ablative cases of nouns; but as the pronouns have an accusative and dative case, it will be convenient to assign six cases to the declinable words of the Kaffir language; namely, the nominative, genitive, dative, accusative, vocative, and ablative.

13. The nominative case is distinguished by the prefix, which answers the end of the indefinite article a or an in English. The demonstrative pronoun is sometimes used as the definite article. Each class of prefixes has its own form of the definite or demonstrative pronoun. (See Pronoun.)
14. The genitive case is formed as follows:—

First. By prefixing the euphonic letter of the governing noun to the prefix of the noun which is governed in the genitive case.

Second. When the euphonic letter is thus prefixed to the prefix of another noun, the vowels ū, ĩ, of the prefix are changed into ō, ē.

Third. When ama is the prefix of the word governing, no euphonic letter is used, but the vowels ū, ĩ, of the prefix of the word governed are changed into ō, ē; when ā, ō, ē, are initial vowels in nouns or pronouns in the genitive governed by the prefix ama, they experience no change.

15. The following examples will suffice for the illustration of these rules:—

DECLENSION. EUPHONIC LETTER.

I............ ū ....... Umtu welizwe, A man of the country.
II............ ũ ....... Ihashe lenkosi, Horse of the captain.
III............ ū ....... Inkosi yabantu, Captain of the people.
IV............ ū ....... Isicaka somtu, Servant of a person.
V............ ū ....... Usana lwenkosi, Infant of the captain.
VI............ ū ....... Umlambo welizwe, River of the country.
VII............ ū ....... Ubuso besicaka, Face of the servant.
VIII............ ū ....... Ukutya kwamahashe, Ford of the horses.
IX............ ū ....... Abantu bomhlaba, People of the earth.
X .... (See Rule III.) Amazwi enkosi, Words of the captain.
XI............ ū ....... Inkomo zabantu, Cattle of the people.
XII............ ū ....... Imiti yomhlaba, Trees of the earth.

16. Before nouns which are names of persons, ka is used as the sign of the genitive, with a syllable prefixed to ka, formed of the euphonic letter of the governing noun and its initial vowel: but the first, third, sixth, eighth, tenth, and twelfth declen-sions seldom prefix this syllable.

DECLENSION.

I ...... Umtu waka or ka Faku, Faku’s men.
II ...... Ilizwi lika Tixo, God’s word.
III ..... Inkosi yika or ka bawo, Captain of my father.
IV ...... Isitya sika ma, My mother’s basket.
V ...... Usana luka Pato, Pato’s infant.
VI ...... Umti waka or ka Nodolo, Nodolo’s tree.
VII ..... Ubulumko buka Tixo, Wisdom of God.
VIII .. Ukuty a kuka or ka Vadanna, Vadanna’s food.
IX ... Abantu baka Tixo, People of God.
X ...... Amahashe ka Kobi, Kobi’s horses.
XI ...... Inkomo zika Tengwane, Tengwane’s cattle.
XII ... Imiti ka or yika Nodolo, Nodolo’s trees.

17. Another mode of expressing the genitive in cases where distinction or emphasis is required, is as follows. Gowwo, leli, &c., according to the following table, supply the place of the preceding forms; they are, in fact, the same forms, with the addition of a syllabic prefix, go, le, &c. :—

18. To express the partitive sense in which of is sometimes used in English, the Kaffirs sometimes prefix k, as follows:—

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>DEC.</th>
<th>REC.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I. umfazi</td>
<td>kumfazi</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>II. ihashe</td>

19. To express “of” or “belonging to,” in reference to any place, the euphonic letter of the noun is used, with the addition of as, inserted between it and the ablative case of the place, thus:—

DECLENSION.

I. Umtu wasemampondweni, A man of Amampondo land.
II. Ihashe laserini, ............ A horse of Graham’s-Town; that is, belonging to Graham’s-Town.

20. The dative case of nouns has no form distinct from the ablative; but the dative of persons can be expressed by prefixing ku, as: Diya ku Pato, “I go to Pato.” The objective is the same as the nominative.

21. The vocative case is formed from the nominative, by dropping the prefix, if it consists of a vowel only, as: ’Bawo, “O my father;” ’Tixo, “O God.” If the prefix consists of a consonant as well as a vowel, the initial vowel is dropped, as: ’Nkosi, “O chief;” ’mfazi, “O woman.” Very often wa, or “he,” is prefixed, especially in familiar speeches, as: wa Faku, wa 'mqai, he Faku. The use of O, as, O'Nkosi, is an Anglicism, but is often used. In calling aloud to a person wena is used, as: Wena Faku, Wena Vadana.

ABLATIVE CASE.

22. The ablative case of nouns is formed from the noun by,—

First. Changing the final vowel into eni or ini, and the initial vowel into e, (eni is used when the noun ends in a, ini, when it ends in i,) as:—

Ilizwi, word; eHizwini, in the word.
Isanhlfa, hand; eSanhlweni, in the hand.

Second. Nouns ending in v or o sometimes change those terminations into w, and then take the regular ablative termination, ENI OR INI, AS:—

Isahl, house; eNshlweni, in the house.
Ubuso, face; eBusweni, in the face.

Third. B, with a vowel before it, (with some few exceptions,) changes into BY in the ablative case, as:—

Iinkabi, ox; eNkabiyeni, in the ox.
Umqabo, chalk; eNqabyeni, in the chalk.

When B forms a part of the prefix of the noun, it never changes into BY in the ablative.

Fourth. Mv changes into Nv, as:—

Umlambo, river; eMlambiyeni, in the river.
Intambo, thong; eTambiyeni, in the thong.

Fifth. Mo changes into Ny, as:—

Umlomo, mouth; eMlomayeni, in the mouth.
Intawo, neck; eTawayeni, in the neck.
Sixth. Nouns of the fifth declension, with the prefix u, change that prefix into elu, as:—

Udaka, mud; eludakeni, in the mud.
Udada, thicket; eludadeni, in the thicket.

Seventh. Nouns of the eleventh declension take the uncontracted plural form in the ablative, as:—

Inkomo, cattle; ezinkomeni, among the cattle.
Inkosi, captains; ezinkosini, among the captains.

Eighth. To express near to, gas is prefixed to the ablative, as:—
Gasenhlewini, near to the house.
Gasemtini, near to the tree.

Ninth. The ablative of places is expressed by merely changing the initial vowel of the noun into e, as:—

Umgwali, the Umgwali; Emgwali, at the Umgwali.
Irini, the Irini: Erini, at the Irini.

Imini and ubusuku follow the same rule, as:—
Emini, in the day; Ebusuku, in the night.

Tenth. When a pronoun precedes the ablative of nouns, s is inserted between the pronoun and the noun, as:—

U semsebenzini, he is at the work.
Ba sezingkomeni, they are among the cattle.
Di semlanjeni, I am in the river.
Inkomo zi sensemineni, the cattle are in the garden.

23. To distinguish between the sense of to and from, implied in the termination of the ablative case, the Kaffirs frequently append some tense of the verb ukwvela, “to come, or be from,” to the nominative of the verb which requires the sense of FROM to be understood in the ablative case of the noun which follows it, as:—

Amanthla a vela ezulwini; power from on high, or power which comes from on high.

Sometimes ku is used to express FROM, as:—

Da tabata ku Pato, I took from Pato.

24. To express FOR, a particular form of the verb is used, (see VERB,) as:—

Wa m zalela umtwana, she bare for him a child.

25. To express the sense of BY, THROUGH, WITH or ALSO, and AND, sundry additions are made to the prefixes of the several classes of nouns. Before we exhibit these in a tabular form, the reader will be aided in understanding them by the following remarks:—

Remark I. The first column of the table expresses by, as, it is done by: Wo bizwa gu Pato; “He will be called by Pato.” It also expresses it is he, or it is it, thus: Gu Pato, “It is Pato;” Sisitya, “It is a basket.”

Remark II. To express THROUGH, in the sense of “by means of,” the second column is used, thus: *Si mile go budenge betu; “We have fallen through, or by means of, or on account of, our stupidity.”

Remark III. To express the conjunctive sense of WITH, ALSO, AND, the third column is used, as: Diya hamba no Pato; “I walk with Pato.”

26. Nouns in apposition are united to each other by prefixing the following forms, (of the relative pronoun and verb substantive,) according to the declension of the first noun, to the forms of the second noun found in the first column of the preceding table:—

DEC.

I. prefixes o Umtu o Gu-Faku; The man who is Faku.

II. ...... h li Igosa e li siscaka; The steward who is a servant.

III. ........ n Inkosi e liroti; The captain who is valiant.

IV. ........ n xi Isicakakazi e xi yintombi; The servant who is the girl.

V. ........ o lu Ulwanhle o lu lulwanhle olukulu; The sea which is the great sea.

VI. ........ o Umti o yintsika; The tree which is the pillar.

VII. .......... o bu Ubusuku o bu bubumnyama; The night which is darkness.

VIII......... o ku Ukuty a o ku sisonka; The food which is bread.

IX. .......... a ba Abantu a ba ngamasela; The people who are thieves.

X. .......... a Amakwenkwe a zizigidimi; The boys who are messengers.

XI. .......... n xi Inkosi e xi ngamadoda; The captains who are men.

XII. ........ n Imiti e lihlati; The trees which are the forest.

27. A contracted mode of expressing nouns in apposition is also used, when the preceding prefixes of the first noun are placed before the nominative of the second noun, the initial vowel being dropped, thus:

Umtu o si denge; The man who is foolish.

Igosa o li sidenge; The steward who is foolish.
SECTION IV.

ADJECTIVES.

1. Adjectives take their prefixes from the prefix of the noun by which they are governed. They are usually written, when placed in vocabularies, with the prefixes in, im, i, thus: inkulu, "great," properly, "it is great," referring to into, or some noun with the prefix in: imhlope, "white," or, "it is white:" irara, "bitter," or, "it is bitter."

2. Adjectives are united to nouns by means of the relative pronoun and verb substantive of each declension of nouns, which is prefixed to the adjective according to the following table:— (See Pronouns.)

3. In the above table there are two columns for adjectives beginning with im. The difference in the omission or retention of the m in some cases arises from a variety in pronunciation, or from the m of the prefix being considered as part of the root-word; in which case, of course, the adjective will follow the analogies of adjectives beginning with i: thus, IM-HLOPE, will be ELI-MHLOPE, &c., as IRARA.

4. In some few cases, certain nouns are united to their adjectives after the manner of nouns placed in apposition. (See Section III., No. 26.) This is when a peculiar emphasis is intended to be placed on the adjective: thus, the Holy Spirit is always termed UMOYA O YINGCWELE; literally, "The Spirit which is the Holy One;" not Umoya Ongcwele, "The Spirit which is holy." For the manner in which adjectives are joined to the verb to be, see Verbs.

5. Nouns used adjectively are united to other nouns by means of the relative pronoun of the noun to which they refer, and the verb uku ba nayo, to have, or be with it. (See Verbs.) The following examples will explain this: i and u, when initial before the noun, are changed into e and o:—

DEC.

I. prefixes o-N Umtu o-nobulumko; A man who has wisdom.
II. ......... ELI-N Ihashe e li-namahla; A horse which has strength.
III. ......... E-N Inkosi e-nobubele; A chief who has money.
IV. ......... ESI-N Isicaka e si-nobumenemene; A servant who has fraud.
V. ......... o LU-N Udaka o lu-namanzi; Mud which has water.
VI. ......... o-N Umlambo o-nenhlabati; A river which has sand.
VII. ......... o KU-N Ukutya o ku-namanhla; Food which has strength.
IX. ........ ABA-N Abantu a ba-nobulumku; People who have wisdom.
X. .......... A-N Amahashe a-namendu; Horses which have speed.
XI. .......... E ZI-N Inkosi e zi-noburoti; Captains who have valour.
XII. ........ E-N Imiti e-namanhla; Trees which have strength.

6. The Kaffir mode of counting is rather complex, as will appear from the following table. To express twenty, they say, "tens which are two;" to express twenty-one, "tens which are two which have one;"

CARDINAL, ORDINAL, AND ADVERBIAL NUMBERS.

CARDINAL.

THE KAFFIR LANGUAGE.

I-waka e li nekulu, one thousand one hundred.
Ama-waka amabini, two thousand.
Ama-waka amabini a nekulu two thousand one hundred and e li neshumi, ten.
Ama-waka amabini a nekulu two thousand one hundred and Isitatu, third.

Isine, fourth.
Isihlanu, fifth.
Isitandatu, sixth.
Isixenxe, seventh.
Isimboxo, eighth.
Isitoba, ninth.
Ishumi, tenth.

From amashumi they are formed by the relative pronoun and the verb prefixed, according to the declension of the word to which they relate, as: E yamashumi mabini; "The thing which is the twentieth."

ADVERBIAL.

Kanye, once.
Kabini, twice.
Katatu, thrice.
Kane, four times.
Kahlana, five times.
Katandatu, six times.

Katoba, nine times
Kashumi, ten times.
Kamashumi, &c., twenty times.
Kakulu, &c., a hundred times.
Kawaka, &c., a thousand times.
Kamawaka, thousandsfold.

7. The cardinal numbers are united to the nouns to which they refer in the same manner as other adjectives, thus:

DEC.
I. Umfazi, o-mnye.
II. Ihashe, e li-nye.
III. Inkosi, e-nye.
IV. Isitya, e si-nye.
V. Utando, o lu-nye.
VI. Umlambo, o-mnye.
VII. Ubuso, o bu-nye, o bu-bini, o bu-tatu, o bu-ne, o bu-hlanu, o bu-tandatu, o bu-zixenxe, o bu-mboxo, o bu-litoba.
VIII. Ukutya, o ku-nye, o ku-bini, o ku-tatu, o ku-ne, o ku-hlanu, o ku-tandatu, &c.
IX. Abanta, a ba-bini, a ba-tatu, a ba-ne, a ba-hlanu, a ba-tandatu, &c.
X. Amadoda, a ma-bini, a ma-tatu, a ma-ne, a ma-hlanu, a ma-tandatu, &c.
Inkosi, e zim-bini, &c., the same as XI.
XII. Imilambo, e mi-bini, e mi-tatu, e mi-ne, e mi-hlanu, e mi-tandatu, &c.

8. The ordinal numbers are usually governed in the genitive case by the nouns to which they refer, according to the rules, Section III., No. 14, as,
Umhla wesibini, "The second day:" sometimes also the ordinal numbers, as, Umhla weshumi.

9. Sometimes, for the sake of emphasis, the relative pronoun is prefixed to the noun governed in the genitive, thus:—

DEC.

I. Umfazi o wokuqala; The woman which is first.
II. Ihashe e lesibini; The horse which is second.
III. Inkosi e yesibini; The chief which is second.
IV. Isitya e sesibini; The basket which is second.
V. Utando o lwesibini; The love which is second.

10. To express, it is one, meaning that no more than one is spoken of, the following forms are used:—

DEC.

I. Umtu emnye, One man.
II. Ihashe linye, One horse.
III. Inkomo inye, One beast.
IV. Isitya sinye, One basket.
V. Usapo lunye, One child.
VI. Umlambo munye, One river.
VII. Ubuso bunye, One face.
VIII. Ukuhlwa kunye, One evening.

11. To express, not one, the initial vowel of the number one is dropped, and na is prefixed.—

DEC.

I. Namnye umtu, Not one man.
II. Nalinye ihashe, Not one horse.
III. Nanye inkosi, Not one captain.
IV. Nasinye isitya, Not one basket.
V. Nalunye usapo, Not one child.

&c. &c.
12. When a noun which is the object of a verb active is followed by an adjective of number, the adjective is not connected with its noun according to the table in paragraph 2, but the apocopated form of the verb ukubal, "to be," preceded by the nominative No. 2 of the personal pronoun of the noun to which the adjective refers, is used, according to the following examples:—

DEC.
I. Umuntu lembnye; A person, let him be one.
II. Ihabhe li le binye; A horse, let it be one.
III. Inkosi i be nanye; A chief, let him be one.
IV. Isitya si be sinye; A basket, let it be one.
V. Ubambo lu be lunye; A rib, let it be one.
VI. Umlambo u be nanye; A river, let it be one.
VII. Ubuso bu be bunye; A face, let it be one.
VIII. Ukuhlwa ku be kunye; Evening, let it be one.
IX. Abantu ba be-babini, -batatu, -bane, -bahlanu, -batandatu, -sizenzhe, -mboxo, -litoba.
XI. Inkomo zi be-mbini, -ntatu, -ne, -nhlanu, -ntandatu, -sizenzhe, -mboxo, -litoba.
XII. Imilambo i be-mbini, -mitatu, -mine, -mihlanu, -mitandatu, -sizenzhe, -mboxo, -litoba.

EXAMPLES OF THE USE OF THIS RULE.
Tabata inkomo zi be mbini; Take two head of cattle.
Subela amahashe ibikile zi be ntatu samazimba; Take for the horses three quarts of corn.

13. To express both, all three, all four, &c., the initial vowel of the number is changed into o, and the euphonious letter of the noun to which the number refers is prefixed:—
THE KAFFIR LANGUAGE.

DEC.

IX. Abantu bobabini, bobatatu, bobane, bobahlanu, &c.; both, all three, all four, &c.

X. Amahashe omabini, omatatu, omane, omahlanu, &c.; both, all three, all four, &c.

XI. Inkomo zombini, zomtatu, zone, zonhlau, &c.; both, all three, all four, &c.

XII. Imilambo yomibini, yomitatu, yomine, yomihlanu, &c.; both, all three, all four, &c.

14. Umnye, "another, of the same sort," is placed before its noun, and changes according to the table of adjectives, Section IV., No. 2, as, omnye umtu; abanye abantu.

15. To express "another, of a different sort," the following forms are used:—

DEC.

I. Umtu wumbi; Another person, of a different description.

II. Ihashe limbi; Another horse, do. do.

III. Inkosi yimbi; Another captain, do. do.

IV. Isitha simbi; Another basket, do. do.

V. Usapo lambi; Another child, do. do.

&c. &c.

16. The ablative of nouns preceded by 'nye, "another," is formed by prefixing kw to the prefix of 'nye, as:—

DEC.

I. Kwomnye umtu; By or near another person.

II. Kwelinye ilizwe; In another country.

III. Kwenyi indau; In another place.

IV. Kwesinye isitya; In another basket.

V. Kwolunye usada; In another thicket.

VI. Kwomnye umlambo; In another river.

&c. &c.

17. O tile, from ukuti, "to say, to be so," is usually employed to express a certain one, thus:—

Umtu o tile, or o tile umtu; A certain person.
Ihashe e li tile; A certain horse.
Umfo o tile; A certain man.

18. To express an indefinite number beyond all count, the Kaffirs use ɪɡɪdɪ and ɪlɪtɪyɛ. But the words are not in general use.

COMPARISON OF ADJECTIVES.

19. The comparative is supplied by using the verb “to exceed” with the abstract form of the noun derived from the adjective, U qitisile gobukulu, “He exceeds in greatness.”

20. Most commonly ku or kwe is prefixed with the sense of thou, as:—

Umkulu ku banina? Than whom art thou greater?
Dimkulu ku we; I am greater than thou.
Ihashe e likulu kwe lo; A horse which is greater than that.
U-Tixo umkulu ku bo bonke abantu; God is greater than all men.
Lento inkulu ku leyo; This thing is greater than that.

21. The place of the superlative is supplied by the addition of certain words, as kakulu, kunene, kanye, kazi, as:—

Ubawo omkulu kakulu; My father, who is great a hundredfold.
Ubawo omkulu kunene; My father, who is truly great.
Ubawo omkulu kanye; My father, who is very great.
Ubawo omkulu kazi; My father, who is greatest of all.

22. The superlative which expresses that the person or thing excels every other of its kind in that which constitutes the peculiar excellency of its sort, is formed by prefixing the negatives of the personal pronouns of the noun referred to, thus:—

DEC.

I. Asinguye umtu; He is not merely a man.
II. Asišilo ilizwe; It is not merely a country.
III. Asiyiyo inkosi; He is not merely a chief.
IV. Asisiso isitya; It is not merely a basket.
   &c.
   &c.
(See the negatives of the personal pronouns.)

A sort of vocative, used in polite, friendly address, is formed of the genitive of tina, etu, governed by the euphonic letter of umtu, or umlingane, &c., understood, as:—wetu; which means, "one of us."

2. Personal pronouns of the third person vary according to the declension of the nouns to which they refer. The following personal pronouns of the third person are placed under each declension of the nouns to which they refer:—
I. II. III. IV. V. VI. VII. VIII. IX. X. IX. XII.

Nom. 1. yena lona yona zona lona wona bona kona bona wona zona yona; he, she, it, they.
2. u li i si lu u bu ku ba a zi i; he, she, it, they.
Gen. ake alo ayo aso alo awo abo ako abo awo azo ayo; of him, her, it, them.
Dat. kuye kulo kuyo kuso kulo kuwo kubo kuko kuwo kuwo kuyo; to him, her, it, them.
Ac. m li yi si lu wu bu ku ba wa zi yi; him, her, it, them.
Ab 1. guye lilo yiyo siso lulo guwo bubo kuko babo gavo zizo yiyo; by him, her, it, them.
2. gaye galo gayo gaso galo gavo gabo gako gavo gavo gayo; through him, her, it, them.
3. naye nalo nayo naso nalo nawo nabo nako nabo nawo nazo nayo; with him, her, it, them.

The negatives of the first form of the ablative are formed as those of the first and second persons, thus: asinguye, asililo, asiyiyo, &c.
3. The genitives of the personal pronouns are governed in the genitive by nouns, the euphonic letter of the noun which governs them being prefixed, thus they supply the place of the possessive pronouns: an example or two will suffice:

Dec. I. bake | kwake | bake | ake | sake | yake; of him, &c.
Dec. II. balo | kwalo | balo | alo | zalo | yalo; of it, &c.

And so on with, ayo, aso, abo, &c., as: umfazi wake, “his wife,” referring to umuntu, or any noun of the first declension; ihashe layo, “his horse,” referring to inkosi, or any noun of the third declension.

RECIPROCAL PRONOUNS.

4. A sort of reciprocal pronoun, similar in signification to the Latin sui, is formed by prefixing gokw to the genitives of the personal pronouns, thus:

Gokw-am; Of myself, on my own account.
Gokw-etu; Of ourselves, on our own account.
Gokw-ako; Of thyself, on thine own account.
Gokw-enu; Of yourselves, on your own account.
Gokw-ake; Of himself, on his own account.
Gokw-abo; Of themselves, on their own account.

And so on with gokw-alo, gokw-ayo, gokw-aso, &c.

POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS.

5. The possessive pronouns are formed from the genitives of the personal pronouns, by prefixing the euphonic letter of the word to which they refer:— (See No. 3.)

Inthlu yayoi; His house, referring to a noun of the third declension.

Abafazi bawo; Their wives, referring to a noun of the tenth declension.

Abantu bake; His people, referring to a noun of the first declension.

Ukutya kwazo; Their food, referring to a noun of the eleventh declension.

6. Sometimes the relative pronoun is prefixed to the genitive of the personal pronoun, before the euphonic letter; by which means a more expressive possessive pronoun is formed. The pronoun in this case is usually placed before its noun, as:—

O wako umzimba; Thy body.
E lako ihashe; Thy horse.
E yam into; My thing.
E sake isitya; His basket.
O bam ubuso; My face.
O kwam ukutya; My food.
A bam abantu; My people.
A wam amadoda; My men.
E zam izinto; My things.

In forming the datives of this form of the possessive pronoun, k is prefixed to those beginning with o; kw to those beginning with a, b; thus:—

Ko wako umelwane; To thy neighbour.
Kwe sake isitya; To his basket.
Kwa bam abantu; To my people.

DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUNS.

7. The demonstrative pronouns are usually prefixed to the words to which they belong: generally the initial vowel of that word is cut off. The following table gives the demonstrative pronouns according to the several declensions of nouns:—

DEC.

I. Lo, this;            lo 'mtu, this man.
    Lowa, { that;      lowa 'mtu, that man.
    Lowaya, that there; lowaya umtu, that man there.

II. Eli, this;          eli 'hashe, this horse.
    Elo, that;         elo 'hashe, that horse.
    Eliya, that there; eliya 'hashe, that horse there.

III. Le, this;          le 'nkosi, this chief.
    Leyo, that;        leyo inkosi, that chief.
    Leyaya, that there; leyaya inkosi, that there chief.

IV. Esi, this;          esi 'sitya, this basket.
    Eso, that;         eso 'sitya, that basket.
    Esiya, that there; esiya isitya, that there basket.

V. Olu, this;           olu 'daka, this mud.
    Olo, that;        olo 'daka, that mud.
    Oulya, that there; oulya udaka, that there mud.

VI. the same as the first declension.

VII. Obu, this;         obu 'buso, this face.
    Obo, that;         obo 'buso, that face.
    Obuya, that there; obuya ubuso, that there face.

VIII. Oku, this;        oku 'kutya, this food.
    Oko, that;         oko 'kutya, that food.
    Okuya, that there; okuya ukutya, that there food.

IX. Aba, these;         aba 'bantu, these people.
    Abo, those;        abo 'bantu, those people.
    Abaya, those there; abaya abantu, those people there.

X. La, these;           la 'madoda, these men.
    Lawo, those;       lawo amadoda, those men.
    Lawaya, those there; lawaya amadoda, those men there.

XI. Ezi, these;         ezi 'sitya, these baskets.
    Ezo, those;        ezo 'sitya, those baskets.
    Eziya, those there; eziya izitya, those baskets there.

XII. Le, these;         le 'milambo, these rivers.
    Leyo, those;       leyo imilambo, those rivers.
    Leyaya, those there; leyaya imilambo, those rivers there.
8. When the demonstrative pronouns lo, le, la, and their compounds, are governed in the genitive, the euphonic letter of the word governing is united to the consonant by the vowel a, thus:

Umfazi wa lo 'mtu; The wife of this man.
Abantu ba lo 'mtu; The people of this man.

9. To express the sense of "the same," the Kaffirs use the ablative case of the pronoun No. 1, which, when thus used, means, "It is it;" as in speaking of ihashe, "a horse," they will say, Lilo, "It is it," "the same." Sometimes they prefix kwa, li kwa, yi kwa, &c., to the ablative No. 1, which then means, "It is even it," as:

DEC.
I. Guye, kwa guye.
II. Lilo, li kwa lilo.
III. Yiyo, yi kwa yiyo.
IV. Siso, si kwa siso.
V. Lulo, lu kwa lulo.
VI. Guwo, kwa guwo.
VII. Bubo, bu kwa bubo.
VIII. Kuko, ku kwa kuko.
IX. Babo, ba kwa babo.
X. Gawo, a kwa gawo.
XI. Zizo, zi kwa zizo.
XII. Yiyo, yi kwa yiyo.

INTERROGATIVE PRONOUNS AND ADVERBS.

10 The interrogative pronouns and adverbs are most conveniently classed together, as they take the prefixes which point out their relationship to some noun, expressed or understood, in the same manner:

(1.) Who? U banina? or Gu banina?
(2.) Who art thou? U gu banina?
(3.) Whose? Ka banina? takes prefixes I. wa; II. li; III. yi; IV. si; V. lu; VI. wa; VII. bu; VIII. ku; IX. ba; X. a; XI. zi; XII. yi.
(4.) By whom? Ga banina?
(5.) To whom? Ku banina?
(6.) With whom? Na banina?
(7.) What? Into nina? or I nina? or I ni? That is, what thing?
(8.) What thing is it? I yinto nina? The above takes the prefixes I. uyi; II. liyi; III. iyi; IV. siyi; V. luyi; VI. uyi; VII. buyi; VIII. kuyi; IX. babyi; X. ayi; XI. ziyi; XII. iyi.
(9.) What thing has it? What is the matter with it? I nanto nina? It takes the prefixes I. u; II. li; III. i; IV. si; V. lu; VI. u; VII. bu; VIII. ku; IX. ba; X. a; XI. zi; XII. i.
(10.) By or through what? Ga 'nto nina?
(11.) To what? Kwi 'nto nina?
(12.) It is what? What is it? Iyi nina? takes the prefixes as inantonina, No. (9.)
(13.) Which is it? Pina? takes the prefixes I. guwu; II. liyi; III. yiyi; IV. sisi; V. lulo; VI. guwu; VII. bubu; VIII. kuku; IX. baba; X. gawa; XI. zizi; XII. yiyi.
(14.) Whether of the two? Kusinina?
(15.) What sort? Nina? After words to which distinction of sex belong, it means, what sort, male or female.
(16.) What is it like? Jenga nina? takes the prefixes as I-nantonina, No. (9), thus: U jenga nina, &c.
(17.) Is it so? Jalo na? takes prefixes as Jenga nina.
(19.) How much? Kangakana nina?
(20.) How often? Futi kangakana nina?
(21.) How many? Whereabouts? Ga pina? takes prefixes as Jenga nina, No. (16.)
(22.) Why? Yinina?
(24.) How was it? Kute nina?
(25.) How long time? Ixesha eli gakana nina?
(26.) How long ago? Ixesha eli gakana nina e li qitleyo?
(27.) What does it mean? Ku kuti nina?
(28.) Where? Pina? takes prefixes as I nanto nina, No. (9.)
(29.) Whence? that is, Where comes it from? I vela pina? takes prefixes as I nanto nina, (No. 16.)
(30.) When? Ninina?

RELATIVE PRONOUNS.

11. The relative pronouns, who, which, or that, are expressed by the vowels, o, e, a: the antecedent determines which vowel is to be used. In the preceding table of adjectives united to nouns, the relative pronouns are seen united with the substantive-verb.

Antecedents whose initial vowel is u take o for their relative pronoun; those in i take e; and those beginning with a take a.

OBlique CASES OF THE RELATIVE PRONOUNS.

12. The relative pronoun, having no variety of termination, forms its oblique cases, whose, whom or which, of, by, to, through, in, at, on which,
or whom, by the aid of the demonstrative pronouns, and of the nominative and oblique cases of the personal pronouns. This part of the Kaffir grammar presents the greatest perplexity to the learner, and must be carefully studied.

WHOSe.

13. Whose, the genitive of who or which, is usually expressed by a periphrasis: thus the Kaffirs will usually say, Umtu igama lake di li tandayo,
"The man his name I it love," instead of "The man whose name I love." Sometimes the following forms are used, which more properly express whose.
The initial vowel of the word immediately following whose is dropped, and the following prefixes supply its place, according to the declensions of the preceding word, thus:—

DEC.

I. prefixes o; Umtu onkosi i-nkulu; A man whose captain is great.

II. ........ eli; Ihashe elinyau zi-nkulu; A horse whose feet are great.

III. ........ e; Inhlu ecango lu-kulu; A house the door of which is large.

IV. ........ esi; Isicaka esinkosi i-nkulu; A servant whose chief is great.

V. ........ olu; Usana obanyau zi-ncinane; A child whose feet are little.

VI. ........ o; Umlambo osibaxa si-ninzi; A river the branches of which are many.

VII. ........ obu; Ubutyani obubuko bu-luhlázi; Grass the appearance of which is green.

VIII. ........ oku; Ukuhla okuvumba li-mnandi; Food the smell of which is pleasant.

IX. ........ aba; Abantu abankomo zi-ninzi; People whose cattle are many.

X. ........ a; Amahashe anyau zi-nkulu; Horses whose feet are large.

XI. ........ ezi; Inkomo ezinyau zi-nkulu; Cattle whose feet are large.

XII. ........ e; Imilambo ematyayi mi-kulu; Rivers the stones of which are many.

WHOM OR WHICH.

14. WHOM or WHICH, the accusative of the relative pronoun, can be expressed two ways:—

First. By prefixing the relative pronoun of the antecedent to the verb, and inserting in the verb, between the prefix and the root, the accusative of the personal pronoun which agrees with the antecedent, and in the present, imperfect, past indefinite, and present perfect tenses, affixing the particle yo to the terminations, thus:—

Ihashe isicaka e si li kwelayo; The horse which the servant rides.
Ihashe isicaka e sa li kwelayo; The horse which the servant rode.
Ihashe isicaka e si yaku li kwela; The horse which the servant will ride.

Second. By prefixing the relative pronoun of the antecedent to the verb, and placing after the verb the nominative of the personal pronoun which agrees with the antecedent, thus:—

Umfazi o nditanda yena; The woman whom I love; literally, The woman who I love she.
Ihashe e nditanda lona; The horse which I love; literally, The horse which I love it.

Remark I. In reference to the preceding rules, it will be necessary to observe, that the first person singular and the first and second persons plural of the verbal prefixes take e before them, when the initial vowel of the antecedent is i or a, and o, when the antecedent begins with u, thus:—

Inkosi e di yi tandayo; The chief whom I love.
Umtu o ni m tandayo; The man whom ye love.
Ukutya o si ku tandayo; The food which we love.

Remark II. The second person singular of the verb prefixes u, and the third person, a, to the regular prefix of the verb; excepting the past indefinite tense and its compounds, where the second person prefixes o:—
Inkosi u yi tandayo; The chief whom thou lovest.
Inkosi a yi tandayo; The chief whom he loves.
Umtu o wa m tandayo; The man whom thou didst love.
Inkosi o wa yi tandayo; The chief whom thou didst love.
Inkosi o wa u be u yi tandayo; The chief whom thou wast loving.

Remark III. When the prefix of the verb commences with a vowel, the vowel is dropped, and the relative pronoun used in its place, as:—

Inhlu inkosi e yi tandayo; A house which the chief loves.
Umtu inkosi e yaku m tanda; A man whom the chief will love.
Ihashe umtu a li tandayo; A horse which the man loves.

Remark IV. When the antecedent and relative precede a passive verb, and a pronoun is the actor, the verb is followed by the ablative case No. 1. of the pronoun; but when a noun is the actor, then the verb is followed by the noun in the form contained in the first column of Section 3, paragraph 28:—

Umtu o tandwa dimi; The man who is loved by me.
Ihashe e li kwelwa yinkosi; The horse which is ridden by the chief.

OF, BY, THROUGH, IN, FROM, TO WHOM OR WHICH.

15. To express of, by, through, in, from, to whom or which, the relative or demonstrative pronoun is placed before the verb as in the paragraphs preceding, and the requisite oblique cases of the personal pronoun of the antecedent are placed after the verb, thus:—

Umfazi o diteta 'ngaye, or, Umfazi lo di teta 'ngaye; The woman of whom I speak.
16. The following table will illustrate the preceding rule:—

FOR WHOM, OR WHICH.

17. To express FOR WHOM, OR WHICH, a particular form of the verb is used, thus:—

<table>

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
18. We can vary the mode of expression, by prefixing the relative or demonstrative pronouns: one example will suffice:

Umfazi o di tetela yena, or, Umfazi o di m tetelayo.
Umfazi lo di tetela yena, or, Umfazi lo di m tetelayo.

BEFORE, BEHIND WHOM, OR WHICH.

19. In cases where, in the English, the relative pronoun WHICH OR WHOM, governed by a preposition, such as BEFORE, BEHIND, ABOVE, precedes a verb, the Kaffirs use the genitive case of the personal pronoun, and place after it the verb: a few examples will suffice:

Umfazi si hamba pambi kwake; The woman before whom we walk; literally, The woman we walk before her.
Ihashe si baleka emva kwalo; The horse after which we run; literally, The horse we run after it.

20. In the above examples, the expression may also be varied, by prefixing the relative or demonstrative pronoun to the verb, thus:

Umfazi e si hamba pambi kwake; or, Umfazi lo si hamba pambi kwake.
Ihashe e si baleka emva kwalo; or, Ihashe e li si baleka emva kwalo &c.
SECTION VI.

VERBS.

1. Verbs must be considered in reference to their forms or conjugations, their voices, moods, tenses, numbers, and persons.

2. The root of the verb, that is to say, the verb in its simplest state, unincumbered by any prefixes or affixes, is the second person singular of the imperative mood, active voice, of the first simple form, as:

   Hamba, walk, from uku hamba, to walk.
   Tanda, love, from uku tanda, to love.

FORMS OR CONJUGATIONS.

3. The forms or conjugations of the verb arise from certain changes which take place in the root. There are five variations of this nature:

   The first is the simple form of the verb, as:

   Tanda, love, from uku tanda, to love.

   From this form of the verb are derived many nouns, concrete and abstract:

   First. By prefixing um, and changing the final vowel into i, nouns of the first declension are formed, as:

   Simple Verb.       Singular.       Plural.

   Hamba, walk ... umkambi, a walker ... abakambi.
   Sila, grind ...... umsiti, a grinder, ...... abasiti.
It will be seen, that this form of the verb, "to have him, it," &c., is only used interrogatively; and when thus used, it is for the purpose of disputing the right of possession to the thing spoken of, as:—

_U nayolo nina lo'nto?_ What right have you with that thing?

Fourth. The objective form is always used when the verb precedes the dative of nouns and pronouns, or adverbs of place, as:—

_Diya hambela ku lo'mzi_; I go to that place.
_Xotela emanzini_; Drive into the water.
_Baya hambela kona_; They go there.
_Bafela enhlumini_; They died in the house.

The third is the causative form of the verb, derived from the simple form, by inserting _is_ before the final vowel. This form corresponds to the Hebrew _hiphil_, as:—

_Tandisa_, cause to love … _uku tandisa_, to cause to love.

_Uku tuka_, "to startle," forms its causative by changing the _k_ into _s_, as:—

_Uku-tuka_, to startle … _uku-tuswa_, to be startled.

The fourth is the reflective form of the verb, derived from the simple form, by prefixing _zi_; so called, because the action of the verb is reflected back upon the agent. This form corresponds to the Hebrew _hithpael_, as:—

_Zitanda_, love thyself ………. _uku zitanda_, to love one's self.
_Diya zitanda_, I love myself … _uya zitanda_, he loves himself.

First. The reflective form is used combined with the objective form, as:—
THE KAFFIR LANGUAGE.

Zitandele, love for thyself.
Zitengele elo 'hashe, buy for thyself that horse.

Second. It is often used with the objective form, to express the doing of an action by one's self, without any assistance, as:—

Umtwana uya zihambela; The child walks by himself.
Lo 'mtu uya zincedela; That man helps himself.

Third. But when the causative form is combined with the reflective, to express the same action, the objective form is not used, as:—

Dandi zisindisa; I saved myself.

The fifth is the reciprocal form of the verb, derived from the simple form, by inserting an before the final vowel. This form is only used in the plural number, as:—

Uku sizana, to help one another.
Siya sizana, we help one another.

First. The reciprocal form is often used with the ablative of the personal pronouns No. 3, as:—

Siya ncedana nani; We help together with you.
Niya ncedana nati; Ye help together with us.

Second. When thus combined it can be used with the singular pronominal prefix of the verb and the singular forms of the ablative No. 3, although the sense will still be plural.

Da pambukana naye enhleleni; I missed him in the path, or,
We missed each other in the path.

Diya ncedana nane emsebenzini; I help with thee in the work, or, We help together in the work.
4. There are two voices, the active and the passive, to the simple, objective, and causative forms of the verb: the other forms have no distinction of voice.

Moods.

5. There are six moods, the infinitive, indicative, imperative, potential, optative, and subjunctive.

Tenses.

6. The tenses are formed by prefixing the substantive verb to the root of the verb which is conjugated, and by changing, in some cases, its termination.

7. The tenses of the Kaffir verb are very numerous, for many tenses have several forms, all of the same meaning. This great variety renders their arrangement a matter of some difficulty. Among the various schemes for the arrangement and nomenclature of the tenses recommended by grammarians, the following, taken from the Notes to the Rev. Mr. Walker's translation of Scheller's "Latin Grammar," two volumes, Svo., appears to me most simple and complete, and well adapted to exemplify the various meanings of the tenses of the Kaffir verb.

DIVISIONS OF TENSES.

8. The tenses of the verb have reference to the time and to the state of the action. The time of an action is either present, or past, or future present, or future past. The state of an action is either indefinite, or imperfect, or perfect; hence there are four principal divisions of tenses as respects time, and each of these is subdivided into three tenses, pointing out the state of an action; making in all twelve tenses; which point out with great nicety both the time and the state of the action of the verb:—

9. It will be seen that although the Kaffir verb has only five changes of termination, yet, by means of the auxiliary substantive verb, it can express the times and states of an action with a degree of nicety which we scarcely expect to find in the language of an uncivilized people.

NUMBER.

10. There are two numbers, the singular and the plural; but the reciprocal form of the verb has no singular number.
11. There are three persons, as in other languages. The third person singular is governed by eight classes of nouns, and changes its initial letter or syllable according to the prefix of the nominative which governs it. The plural is governed by four classes of nouns, and, accordingly, changes its initial letter or syllable four times.

COMPOUND VERBS.

12. Besides the five forms of verbs which are conjugated by the help of the substantive-verb, there is a numerous class of verbs, compounded with certain adverbs and verbs, which are very troublesome to the learner. The principal words which thus unite with the verbs are ke, kanda, sa, se, and the verb uku za, "to come."

REGULAR VERBS.

13. The various forms or conjugations of the verbs uniformly take the prefixes of the substantive-verb in one and the same manner. Most of the verbs are regular, and take the prefixes according to the model uku tanda, which is given in No. 16, in the active voice, affirmatively and negatively.

IRREGULAR VERBS.

14. The verbs which begin with a vowel vary in some respects from the model, tanda, in consequence of a contraction of the vowel before the prefixes. And several other verbs form their past tenses of the active voice, and the present and past tenses of the passive voice, irregularly. (See verbs Remark V. But when m precedes l, s, or s, it changes into nyu, as:—

Uku qama, to cut off ... uku qanyulwa, to be cut off.
Uku tyumza, to bruise ... uku tyunyuzwa, to be bruised.

Remark VI. P changes into tsh, as:—

uku bopa, to tie ...... uku botshwa, to be tied.

Remark VII. Irregular verbs insert iw before the final vowel in the passive, as:—

Uku ba, to steal ...... uku binwa, to be stolen.
Uku pa, to give ...... uku pinwa, to be given.

Remark VIII. Neuter verbs ending in oka, ika, eka, ula, ala, and ela, become active by changing the k and l into s, and then take the regular passive termination, thus:—

Neu. Uku gqoboka, to break through.
Act. Uku gqoboza, to break through.
Pas. Uku gqojozwu, to be broken through.

Neu. Uku nybilika, to melt.
Act. Uku nybiliza, to melt.
Pas. Uku nybilizwa, to be melted.
&c. &c.

PARADIGM OF A REGULAR VERB ACTIVE.

16. A verb which takes the prefixes regularly is conjugated as the following verb ukutanda.

INFINITIVE MOOD.

Uku tanda, to love.

The infinitive mood is often used as a noun, thus:—
Ukutanda kwam, my love ...... ukutandwa kwam, my being loved.

First. It it used thus, when a general and extensive sense is attached to the noun, as:—

Ukupa ka Tizo kububomi obungunapakade; "The gift of God is eternal life."

Second. Care must be taken to avoid using the active and passive forms of the infinitive promiscuously. When the active form of the infinitive is used as a noun governing another in the genitive, the word governed is the actor or agent. When the passive form of the infinitive is used, the word governed in the genitive is the object acted upon. Thus, in the sentence, Ukutimba kwama Israel, "The taking captive of the Israelites," the meaning is, that the Ama-Israel took others captive; but in Ukutinjwa kwama Israel, "The being taken captive of the Israelites," the meaning is, that the Israelites themselves were taken captive. In other cases, the infinitive used as a noun is simply a verbal, as: Ukutanda kulingile; "Loving is good."

Third. The infinitive mood, when governed in the genitive by a noun, often means "for the," as:—

DEC.
I. Umtu wokuhamba; A man for the going, or to go.
II. Ihashe lokuhamba; A horse for the going, or to go.
III. Inkosi yokuhamba; A chief for the going, or to go.
IV. Isicaka sokuhamba; A servant for the going, or to go.
V. Usapo Iwokuhamba; A child for the going, or to go.
VI. Umlambo wokuhlanza; A river for the washing, or to wash at.
Grammar of

VII. Ubuso bokukangela; A face for the looking.

VIII. Ukutya kwokupekwa; Food for the cooking.

IX. Abantu bokusebenza; People for the working.

X. Amanzi okuselwa; Water to be drunk.

XI. Inkomo zokurzelwa; Cattle to be slaughtered.

XII. Imiti yokugaulwa; Trees to be chopped down.

Fourth. When the infinitive mood is used as a noun in the ablative case, followed by a pronoun in the genitive case, it has the sense of when I love, &c.

Ekutandeni kwam; In my loving, or when I loved.

Ekubuyeni kwake; In his returning, or when he returned.

Indicative Mood.

Present Indefinite Tense.

I do love, &c.

PERS.        SING.        PLU.
1. Daye diya kuba di bendi .......... Saye siya ku ba si besi tanda.

The prefixes of the forms No. 3 to 8 are the same with those of the future present indefinite tenses of which they are compounded, with the addition of ba di and ba di be di, and need not be given entire. (See pages 67, 68.)

I shall or will not be loving, &c.

There are eighteen forms of the negative which are compounded of the negatives of the future present indefinite, with the addition of ba di and ba di bendi, &c., of the future imperfect. It is sufficient to give the first person singular of each form:—

NO.
1. Andi ku ba di tanda.
2. Andi ku ba di bendi tanda.
3. Andi yi ku ba di tanda.
4. Andi yi ku ba di bendi tanda.
5. Andiya ku ba di tanda.

16. Da dinga sa ku ba di bendi tanda.
17. Daye dinga sa ku ba di tanda.
18. Daye dinga sa ku ba di bendi tanda.
Future Present Perfect Tense.

I shall or will have loved, &c.

This tense has eight forms of prefixes in the affirmative, which are the same as the last eight forms of the affirmatives of the future present imperfect tense, from which it differs only in the termination of the verb, thus:—

No.
1. Do ba di tandile, or tande.
2. Do ba di bendi tandile, or tande.
3. Diya ku ba di tandile, or tande.
4. Diya ku ba di bendi tandile, or tande.

&c. &c.

No. 2 takes the prefixes of the affirmative as above.
Present Imperfect Tense.

This tense is formed from the preceding Dinga, with the addition of Ba di and Ba di bendi: one example of the affirmative and negative of each form will be sufficient:—

I may or can be loving, &c.

No.
1. Dinga ba di tanda, &c.
2. Dinga ba di bendi, tanda, &c.

I may or can not be loving, &c.

No.
1. Andinge ba di tande, or tanda, &c.
2. Andinge ba di bendi tande, or tanda, &c.

Present Perfect Tense.

This tense only varies from the preceding present imperfect tense in taking the terminations Tandile, or Tande, instead of Tanda:—

I may or can have loved, &c.

No.
1. Dinga ba di tandile, or tanda, &c.
2. Dinga ba di bendi tandile, or tande, &c.

I may or can not have loved, &c.

No.
1. Andinge ba di tandile, &c.
2. Andinge ba di bendi tandile, &c.
THE KAFFIR LANGUAGE.

Past Indefinite Tense.

This tense is formed from dinga, and the prefixes of the past imperfect tense of the indicative mood: as its changes of prefix follow the tenses from which it is derived, one example of the negative and affirmative of each form will be sufficient:—

I might or could love, &c.

No.
1. Bendinga tanda, &c.
2. Di bendinga tanda.
3. Da dinga tanda.
4. Da bendinga tanda.
5. Da di bendinga tanda.
6. Daye dinga tanda.
7. Daye bendinga tanda.
8. Daye di bendinga tanda.

I might or could not love, &c.

... VIII. Ga-ku, or ge-ku tanda.

First. This tense is often used in the very same sense as the future past indefinite tense of the indicative mood.

Second. It is also commonly used in the sense of ought, as:

Ge-di tanda U Tixo; I ought to love God.

Ge-u tanda U Tixo; Thou oughtest to love God.

I might or could not be loving, &c.

Past Perfect Tense.

This tense is derived from the preceding past imperfect tense by adding to all the thirty forms, except No 3, Tandile, or Tande; thus:—

I might or could have loved, &c.

Future Present Indefinite Tense.

It is very difficult to give the meanings of the future tenses of the potential mood in English: they all imply a supposition of the possibility of the action of the verb being performed, or performing, or completed; thus:—

I might be so, that I shall love then, &c.

Ge-diya ku tanda, &c.
I might be so, that I shall not love then, &c.
Ge-dinga sa ku tanda, &c.

Future Present Imperfect Tense.

I might be so, that I shall be loving then, &c.

No.
1. Ge-diya ku ba di tanda, &c.
2. Ge-diya ku ba di bendi tanda.

I might be so, that I shall not be loving then, &c.

No.
1. Ge-dinga sa ku ba di tanda, &c.
2. Ge-dinga sa ku ba di bendi tanda.

Future Present Perfect Tense.

I might be so, that I shall have loved then, &c.

No.
1. Ge-diya ku ba di tandile, or tande, &c.
2. Ge-diya ku ba di bendi tandile, or tande.

I might be so, that I shall not have loved then, &c.

No.
1. Ge-dinga sa ku ba di tandile, or tande, &c.
2. Ge-dinga sa ku ba di bendi tandile, or tande.

Future Past Indefinite Tense.

I might be so, that I should love, &c.
Ge-di bendi ya ku tanda, &c.

I might be so, that I should not love, &c.
Ge-di bendinga sa ku tanda.
Future Past Imperfect Tense.

I might be so, that I should be loving, &c.

No.
1. Ge-di bendiya ku ba di tanda, &c.
2. Ge-di bendiya ku ba di bendi tanda.

I might be so, that I should not be loving, &c.

No.
1. Ge-di bendinga sa ku ba di tanda, &c.
2. Ge-di bendinga sa ku ba di bendi tanda.

Future Past Perfect Tense.

I might be so, that I should have loved, &c.

No.
1. Ge-di bendiya ku ba di tandise, or tande, &c.
2. Ge-di bendiya ku ba di bendi tandise, or tande.

I might be so, that I should not have loved, &c.

No.
1. Ge-di bendinga sa ku ba di tandise, or tande, &c.
2. Ge-di bendinga sa ku ba di bendi tandise, or tande.

It will be observed, that the whole of the future present and future past tenses of the potential mood are formed by merely prefixing ga or ge to the forms of the same tenses found in the indicative mood; but, in the negatives, care must be taken to prefix ga or ge to those forms only of the negatives of the above tenses in the indicative mood which are formed by dinga, &c., as verbal prefixes.
OPTATIVE MOOD.

Present Indefinite Tense.

I wish to love, &c.

Present Imperfect Tense.

This tense is formed by adding to the prefixes of the preceding tense the forms of the present imperfect tense of the indicative mood; thus:

Dinga dinge di tanda; I wish I was now loving.
Present Perfect Tense.

This tense is formed by prefixing dinga dinga, &c., to the same tense in the indicative mood:—

PERS.
1. Dinga dinga di tandile; I wish I had loved.
2. Unga 'nga u tandile; Thou wishest thou hadst loved.

Past Indefinite Tense

is formed by placing the prefixes of the same tense, in the indicative mood, before the first 'nga, in—instead of \emph{di, u, &c.}, as prefixed in the preceding tense:—

PERS.
1. Danga dinga tanda, or di tandile; I wished to love.
   (DEC.)
2. I. Wanga 'nga tanda, or u tandile; He wished to love.
   ... II. Langa linga tanda, or li tandile; It wished to love.

Past Imperfect Tense

is formed by prefixing dinga dinga, &c., to the same tense in the indicative mood:—

1. Dinga dinga di bendi tanda, &c.

Past Perfect Tense

is formed by prefixing dinga dinga, &c., to the same tense in the indicative mood:—

1. Dinga dinga di bendi tandile, &c.

Future Tenses.

The future is formed by prefixing the forms of the future present indefinite tense of the indicative mood to the first nga, and making the verb end in ile; thus:—

I shall wish that I had loved, &c.

PERS.  SING.
1. Donga 'nga di tandile.
2. Wonga 'nga u tandile.
   (DEC.)
3. 1. Wonga 'nga u tandile.

To express, I, thou, he, &c., wish, wishest, or wishes thee, him, you, me, &c., to love, the nominative No. 2 of the personal pronoun referring to the person wishing is prefixed to the first nga; and the nominative No. 2 of the personal pronoun of the object on which the wish terminates is inserted before the second nga; thus:

Dinga unga tanda; I wish thee to love.
Banga singa tanda; They wish us to love.
Singa ninga tanda; We wish you to love.
Dinga unge tandi; I wish thee not to love.

The following example of the use of dinga, dinga, &c., will illustrate its uses:

Dinga dinga e be tandile; I wish he had been loving.
Unga dinga di tandile; He wishes I had loved.
Dinga bang a be tanda; I wish they were now loving.
Unga dinge tandi; Thou wishest me not to love.
Dinga 'ge tandi; I wish him not to love.
Dinga 'ga e benga tandile; I wish he had not been loving.
Unga dinga 'dinga tandile; He wishes I had not loved.
Dinga bang a benge tandile; I wish they were not now loving.

USE OF AKWABA AS A PREFIX.

Akwaba is prefixed to the tenses of the verb in the indicative mood to express desire for the possession of a thing, or for the accomplishment of an action, accompanied with regret that it is not obtained or performed. The negative is formed by prefixing akwaba to the negative tenses.

  Akwaba diya tanda; If I do but love.
  Akwaba niya tanda; If ye do but love.
  Akwaba si tanda; If we were but loving.
  Akwaba e tanda; If he were but loving.
  Akwaba andi tandanga; If I had but not loved.

Akwaba bonke abantu bangamqombisi u-Tixo zizono zabo;
  - How desirable that all people offend not God by their sins!

Sometimes the akwa of akwaba is omitted, and the negative prefixes No. I. (marked No. II. by mistake) of the past indefinite tense indicative mood used; as:

  Anda ba diya tanda; If I do but love.
  Ana ba niya tanda; If ye do but love.
  Asa ba siya tanda; If we do but love, &c.

In the following sentences, akwaba precedes nouns and pronouns:

Akwaba di nayo lonto; If I had but that thing.
Akwaba u-Adam no-Eva ba mana uku hla la ebungeweleni;
  - If Adam and Eve had but continued in holiness.

SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD.

First. To express if, ukuba is prefixed to the tenses of the indicative mood, as:

  Ukuba diya tanda; If I love, &c.
  Ukuba haya ku tanda; If they shall love.

Second. In order to express the sense of that it be, that it may be, in order that, that it might, could, would be, &c., the conjunctions ukuba or ukuze, are prefixed to the apocopated form of the present perfect tense of the indicative mood, tande, or tandwe; but the third person of the first declension takes a as its pronominal prefix, instead of u, thus:—

Diya hamba ukuba di neede; I go that I may help.
Baya cela ukuze ba zuze; They ask that they may obtain.
Ba hambile ukuba bangaa bonakali; They have gone that they might not be seen.
Diya ku ya ukuba di bone; I will go, in order that I may see.
Cela ukuze u zuze; Ask, that thou mayest receive.
Ma-ka hambe ukuba a bone; Let him go, that he may see.

Third. The negative is formed by using the negative of the present imperfect tense of the indicative mood after ukuba, or ukuze, as:—

Si neede ukuba singa wi; Help us, that we fall not.
Guqula inkhliziyo setu-ukuba sing oni; Turn our hearts, that we sin not.
Kangela ukuze unga kohliswa; Look, that thou be not deceived.

Fourth. Sometimes ukuba, or ukuze, are omitted:—

Diya ku hamba di neede; I will go, that I may help.
Siyta tandemza si lve uferे lwako; We pray, that we may feel thy grace.

Fifth. When ukuba is prefixed to the first of two verbs, the former of which expresses a condition, and the latter asserts something which will take place in consequence of the condition expressed by the first being fulfilled, the future present indefinite tense, No. 3, indicative mood, is used as the second verb, thus:—
Ukuba di yenza lonto da diya ku fa; If I do that thing, I shall die.
Ukuba niya hamba na niya ku bona; If ye go, you will see.

Sixth. When the imperative is used, ukuba is omitted; but the same form of the future present indefinite tense must be used as the second verb, thus:—

Sondelani ku Tixo, na cya ku sondela kuni; Draw near to God, and he will draw near to you.
Funani na niya ku zuza; Seek, and ye shall find; that is, If ye seek, ye shall find.

2. The past participle is the past indefinite tense of the verb; but care must be taken to use the negative No. III., (marked No. IV. by mistake,) for the negative of the participial form.

3. The perfect participle, "having loved," is precisely the same as the present participle, excepting that the termination is changed into ile, thus:

PRESENT PARTICIPLE.  PERFECT PARTICIPLE.

Di tanda; I loving.  Di tandle; I having loved.
Enge tande; He not loving.  Enge tandile; He not having loved.

4. The passive participle is formed by inserting ek before the final vowel of the active verb, thus:
THE KAFFIR LANGUAGE.

Diya tanda; I am loving. Diya tandeka; I am being loved.
Dibe di tanda; I was loving. Dibe di tandeka; I was being loved.

5. This form is used with all the tenses of the verb, and is often analogous in sense to the passive verb; from which, however, it is sufficiently distinguished by either not referring the action to any particular agent, or implying, that the object acted upon is itself the actor, thus:—

PARTICIPLE.

Diya ku tandeka; I shall be loved.
Ucango luya vuleka; The door is opening.

PASSIVE VERB.

Diya ku tandwa gomtu otile; I shall be loved by a certain person.
Ucango luya vulwa gu John; The door is opened by John.

OF NEUTER VERBS USED ADJECTIVELY.

1. The present perfect tense of neuter verbs is, in Kaffir, used adjectively, as:—

Uku fa; To die........U file yena; He is dead.
   Li file ihashe; The horse is dead.
   Ba file abantu; The people are dead.

Uku qekeka; To break.
   Isitya si qekekile; The basket is broken.
   Amatye a qekekile; The stones are broken.
2. When the relative is prefixed to the personal pronoun, the adjective derived from neuter verbs ends in yo, as:

DEC.

I. Umtu o fileyo; The man who is dead.
II. Ihashe e li fileyo; The horse which is dead.
IX. Abantu a ba fileyo; The people who are dead.
IV. Isitya e si qekekileyo; The basket which is broken.
V. Amaty e qekekileyo; The stones which are broken.

3. It must be observed, that those verbs only are used adjectively in Kaffir, the present perfect tense of which expresses being, or a state of being; hence we must exclude that class of neuter verbs usually denominated by grammarians, "active intransitive verbs," that is, those which express action confined to the actor, as:

Uku hamba; To walk.
Uku thlala; To play.
Uku feketa; To sport.

4. Active verbs are used adjectively by their taking the passive participial termination, eka, (see pages 100, 101,) and using their present perfect tense, as in the case of neuter verbs; as:

Diya tanda; I love.
Di tandekele; I am beloved.
Diya tandeka; I am being loved.
Diya kulula; I loosen.
Di kululekile; I am loosened.
Diya kululeka; I am being loosened.
5. It is worthy of remark, that when active verbs are thus used adjectively, it is not necessarily implied, that the person or thing spoken of was previously in a state the contrary of that expressed by the adjective; as:—

_Di tandekile_; I am beloved, does not imply, that I was previously hated.

_Di kululekile_; I am at liberty,
does not imply, that I was previously bound.

6. The neuter verbs,

_Uku hlala_; To sit,
_Uku ma_; To stand, form their present perfect tenses irregularly; as:—

_Di hleli_; I sit.
_Di mi_; I stand.

7. As in the active verb, the neuter verbs ending in _ala_ change that termination into _ele_; and those ending in _la_ into _le_, in forming their present perfect tense, as:—

_Uku lala_; To lie.  _Di lele_; I am lying.
_Ubu lele_; Thou wast lying.
SECTION VII.

AUXILIARY VERBS.

1. The chief of these are: uku mana; “to continue;” ukw andula, “to perform an action at a given time;” uku za, “to come;” uku ti, “to be so,” or “to say;” and uku kova, “to take place at the very time.”

OF UKU MANA.

2. Mana is used as a regular verb, as far as prefixes are concerned, but always precedes another verb, and expresses the continuance of the action of the verb to which it is prefixed.

3. The form of the verb which follows mana is often the participial form, but more generally the infinitive, as:

Di mana di tanda; I continue loving; or,
Di mana uku tanda; I continue to love.
Wo mana u tanda; Thou wilt continue loving; or,
Wo mana uku tanda; Thou wilt continue to love.
Wa mana e tanda; He continued loving; or,
Wa mana uku-tanda; He continued to love.
Bebe mana be tanda; They were continuing loving; or,
Bebe mana uku tanda; They were continuing to love.

The final a of mana is sometimes dropped, as:

Di man’ uku tanda.
Wo man’ uku tanda.

OF UKW ANDULA.

4. Andula, the root of this verb, is used as any other vowel-verb, (see vowel-verbs,) and prefixed to the infinitive of regular verbs.
6. When thus prefixed, it refers to time; yet neither past, present, nor future exclusively; but implying that the action was, is, or is to be performed just at the time pointed out either by the verb which it precedes, or the drift of the sentence with which it is connected, as:

PRESENT TENSE.

Di sandula uku fika; I have just now arrived.
U sandula uku fika; Thou hast just now arrived.

The letter s is inserted in the above forms, because it is the present imperfect tense. (See vowel-verbs.)

7. The past and future tenses of this verb express the word "then," when referring to time, and preceded by a verb the action of which is supposed to be finished at the time referred to.

Past Tense.

A ku fa bendi sandula ukufika; I was just then arrived when he died.
Danfika denza lonto, d'andula uku buya; I arrived, and did that thing, and then returned.
Waya wa fika w' andula uku buya; He went, and arrived, and then returned.

8. In the future tense, the form expressing "that I may, that thou mayest," &c., found under the subjunctive mood, is inserted between the first verb and the verb taking andula, although the ukuba is not always used, as:—
Do ya uku ba di kangele (or, Do ya di kangele) d' andula uku buya; I will go, in order that I may look, and then return.
Wo ya uku ba ukangele (or, Wo ya u kangele) w' andula uku buya; Thou wilt go, that thou mayest look, and then return.
Wo ya uku ba a buze, w' andula uku buya; He will go, in order that he may look, and then return.

9. Sometimes the infinitive of the verb follows the first verb in the future, as:—

Do ya uku kangela, d' andula uku buya; I will go to look, and then return.
Bo ya uku buza, b' andula uku buya; They will go to ask, and then return.

10. When the negative of ukw andula is used, the form found under the subjunctive mood referred to above (in No. 8) is used, and follows the negative of ukw andula, as:—

Ali kw anduli pume ilanga; The sun will not rise just yet.
Awu kw anduli u tshe umlambo; The river will not dry up just yet.

SEC.
I. Ak' andulanga buye, yena; He did not return just then.
Ung'anduli u jike; Do not turn just yet.

OF UKU TL.

1. This verb differs from others in being only prefixed to a certain class of neuter verbs which are never conjugated without its assistance; whereas the other auxiliary verbs are used in connexion with Kaffir verbs of all classes, and which are often conjugated without the assistance of the other auxiliaries.
When uku ti is used alone, it means, "to say or be so," as:—

Di ti; I say.
Da ti; I said.
Da ti,—da fika; I did so,—I arrived.

2. The verb following uku ti undergoes no change; but ukuti is conjugated as any other irregular verb, (to which class it belongs,) in all its moods and tenses, thus:—

Uku ti shwaka; To suddenly disappear.

Present Indefinite Tense.

<tr>

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

These examples will be sufficient to exemplify the manner in which this verb is used in connexion with other verbs.

3. The accusative of the personal pronoun is inserted between the pronoun and the verb; and when thus inserted in uku ti, resembles the causative form of the regular verb, as:—

(Dec.)
I. Da m ti shwaka; I caused him suddenly to disappear.
II. Diya li ti shwaka; I cause it suddenly to disappear.
III. Wo yi ti shwaka; Thou wilt cause it suddenly to disappear.
&c.

4. The above forms will appear, at first sight, to be in the active voice; but it is the verb uku ti, and not the verb which follows, which is active; and when uku ti precedes a verb of this class, the verb following uku ti expresses merely the state of the person or thing which is the actor, the action of the verb being exclusively confined to uku ti, as:—

Da ti shwaka; I suddenly disappeared.

Here, in the mind of a Kaffir, the action is confined to “da ti,” and the meaning is, “I did so,”—suddenly disappeared, that is, I placed myself in the state expressed by sudden disappearance.

5. In forming the passive voice, uku ti follows the analogies of other irregular verbs, but the final vowel is changed into a, as:—

Pers. Sing.
1. Da tiwa shwaka; I was made suddenly to disappear.
2. Uya ku tiwa shwaka; Thou wilt be made suddenly to disappear.

(Dec.)
3. I. U tiwe shwaka; He is made suddenly to disappear.
... II. La tiwa shwaka; It was made suddenly to disappear.

6. The verb following uku ti may be used as a regular verb by adding za to the final vowel; which addition will make it an active regular verb, the uku ti being dropped, as:—

Uku shwakaza; To make suddenly to disappear.

OF UUKZA.

1. This verb often stands alone, and is conjugated in the same manner as all others of the class to which it belongs; but it is often placed before the infinitive of other verbs, in the sense of the action of the verb before which it is placed being about to take place. When thus prefixed, the initial of the infinitive is dropped, as:—
Di za 'ku tanda; I am about to love.
We za 'ku baleka; He was about to run.
U za 'ku fa; He is about to die.
Umlambo u za 'ku tsha; The river is nearly dry.
Lonto i za 'ku pela; That thing is nearly finished.
Lonto i za 'ku bako; That thing is about to take place.

2. Sometimes uku za precedes another verb in the past time in the sense of “then,” as:—

We za wa ti; Then spake he.
We za wa pendula; Then answered he.
De za da ti; then spake I.

3. Uku za is sometimes prefixed to another verb, to express entreaty or supplication, as:—

Z' u nga di beti; Do not beat me.
Z' u nga qumbi kumi; Do not be angry with me.
Z' u we nze lonto; Do that thing.
Z' u hambe kona; Go there.

It will be observed, that, in the above forms, the z only of uku za is retained, but it is a contraction which is very common.

OF UKU KOVA.

1. This verb is used before the infinitive of other verbs, in the sense of the action of the verb used in the infinitive being completed just previously to some other action taking place, as:—

Da ku kova uku fika wa qala uku teta; At the very time when I arrived, he began to speak.
Da di kovayo uku fika, wo ti wo zimela yena; Immediately on my arrival, he will hide himself.
THE KAFFIR LANGUAGE.

Da si kovayo uku fa, so ti so gena ebusweni buka-Tixo; At the very time we die, we shall enter into the presence of God.

OF THE VERB UKU BA, TO BE.

1. Ko is added to this verb to express being present, as uku ba ko, "to be present," as:

   Diya ku ba ko; I will be present.
   Ebe ko; He was present.
   Ba ko; They are present.

2. Be, the apocopated form of this root, preceded by the verbal prefixes of the present imperfect tense of the indicative mood, the third person, first declension, taking a as its prefix, is used in connexion with the forms of nouns found in column I. of the table, No. 25, section 3rd, as:

   Xela elilitye li be sisonka; Command this stone that it be bread.
   Pala isikumba si be yimvaba; Dress a hide in order that it be a milk-sack.

3. The same forms of the verb are used before adjectives, and before nouns used adjectively; as,

   Yaka inhlu i be mkulu; Build a house; let it be large.
   Yenza inhlela i be banzi; Make a path; let it be wide.
   Funani ufefe ku-Tixo ni be namankla uku m konza; Seek ye the grace of God, that you may be strong to serve him.

4. Ukuba is prefixed to the ablative of the personal pronouns No. 3, in the sense of the verb to have; as,
(Dec.)
I. Uku ba naye; To have him.
II. Uku ba nalo; To have it.
III. Uku ba nayo; To have it.
&c. &c.

The above forms are thus used:—

Do ba naye umtu; I shall have him, a man.
Di be di nalo ihashe; I had it, a horse.

5. The ablative is often omitted, and the forms of nouns found in column 3rd of the table No. 25, section 3rd used, as:—

Do ba nomtu; I shall have a man.
Di bendi nehashe; I had a horse.
U namanthla; He has strength.
Wa be noncedo; He had help.

6. The substantive-verb uku ba is used before the forms of nouns found in the table, section 3rd, No. 25, col. i., as:—

Diya ku ba sisicaka; I shall be a servant.
Di gumtu; I am a man.
Ebe sisidenge; He was a foolish one.
Uya ku ba ligosa; He will be a favourite.

Remark. It will be observed that ba, the root of ukuba, is used in the above examples only in the future time, the verbal prefixes alone expressing the verb substantive in the past and present time.

7. The prefixes of the past indefinite tense are used with the root of uku ba, followed by the forms of nouns found in col. i. of the table No. 25, section 3rd, to express "he became," "it became," &c., as:—

Wa ba gumtu; He became a man.
Wa ba gumpfunglo o pilileyo; He became a living soul.
Igoza la ba sisicaka; The favourite became a servant.

8. The above forms of verbal prefixes, followed by the euphonic letter of the declension to which the verbal prefix belongs, are also prefixed to the genitive of the personal pronouns, and express, "it became his own," &c.

10. The other tenses of the verb are followed by the adjectives, according to the preceding form:—

Ihashe beli likulu; The horse was great.
Umtu uya ku ba mkulu; The person will be great.
SECTION VIII.

PECULIAR FORMS OF THE VERBS.

1. There are many forms of the verb which are expressed by the use of certain particles, or the combination of two verbs. The following are the principal.

2. Se is used with the tenses of the verb, and gives the sense of the action being, having been, or that it shall be, already finished, previously to some other event taking place, as:

Bendi se di hlulile mina unge ka fiki yena; I had already passed, he not having arrived.

3. The following is the present perfect tense:

I am already loving, &c.

<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>

<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

4. The prefixes of the above tense are used with all the tenses of the verb, being inserted between the regular prefix and the verb, according to the tense used; as:—

Bendi se di tanda; I was already loving.
E be se e tanda; He was already loving.
U bu se lu tandile; Thou hadst already loved.
Bendi se di tandile; I had already loved.
Baya ku ba se be tanda; They will already be loving Niya ku ba se ni tandile; You will have already loved.
Be diya ku ba se di tanda; I should or would have been already loving.
E beya ku ba se e tandile; He should or would have already loved.
Gendi se di tanda; I ought already to love.
Ma di be se di tanda; Let me be already loving.
Ma u se lu tande; Let me already love.
Dinga dinga se di tanda; I wish I already loved.

5. The negative is as follows:—

I am not yet loving &c.

6. The following is a negative of the participial form:—
Dinge ka tandi; I having not yet loved.
Uenge ka tandi; Thou having not yet loved.

7. The negative of the participial form is used in the following and similar sentences; as:

So fika benge ka fiki bona; We shall arrive before them, or literally, they not having yet arrived.
E be ko yena dinge ka bi ko mina; He was present before me, or, I not yet being present.

Thus in every sentence where before is used as above, this form of the verb must be used in Kaffir.

8. Ke or ka prefixed to the apocopated form of the present perfect tense indicative mood, (declension I. taking a, and declension IX. be, as their verbal prefixes,) is used in the sense of “just a little,” or, of performing an action without energy;
as:

I sometimes love, &c., or I love a little, &c.

9. This form is often used as belonging to the imperative mood; as:
THE KAFFIR LANGUAGE.

Ke di linge; Let me just try.
Ka u yenze lonto; Just do that thing.
Ka ni hambe; Just go ye.
Ka ni kwelele enhleleni; Come, just move out of the path.

10. The above forms are used with all the tenses of the verb, the prefixes of which are placed before these forms; as:

Da di ke di tande; I did love a little.
Ubu ke u tande; Thou wast loving a little.
Si besi ke si tande; We were loving a little.
Baya ku ke be tande; They will love just a little.

11. Sometimes ke, or ka, is prefixed to the forms of the past indefinite tense, indicative mood, and then means, "I did once love;" as:

I once loved, &c.

12. The negative forms of the present indefinite tense, indicative mood, are prefixed to the first form; thus:

Andi ke di tande; I do not love even a little.
Aku ke u tande; Thou dost not love, not even a little.
13. The negatives of the second form are formed by using the negative form of the verb, ukusa, to come; as:

Andi zanga di tande, or Andi zanga da tanda; I never once loved.

The following forms are also used:—

Andi kanga di tande; I never loved, not even a little.
Aku kanga u tande; Thou never lovest, not even a little.

14. Da and de are inserted between the prefix and the verb, to express, "at length," or "until;" as:

Di de di tande; Until at length I loved.
Wo da u tande; Thou wilt at length love.
Ba da ba tanda; Until they loved.
Sa hamba, sa da sa fika; We walked until we arrived.
Kwa da kwa sa; Until the morning.
Kwa da kwa kaloku; Until now.
Kwa da kwa hlwa; Until evening.
Kwa da kwa cwalasa; Until it began to be dark.
Ma si de si qibe lonto; Let us at length finish that thing.

15. Sa is inserted between the root of the verb and the prefix, in the sense of "yet;" as:

Di sa tanda; I am yet loving.
U bu sa tanda; Thou wast yet loving.
Da sa tanda; I yet, or still loved.
Ba sa tanda; They yet, or still loved.

16. When sa is inserted between the prefix and the infinitive of the verb, it expresses the sense of being yet about to perform an action: when thus used, the initial u of the infinitive is dropped; as:
Di sa ku tanda; I am yet about to love.
Wa u sa ku tanda; Thou wast yet about to love.
Niya ku ba ni sa ku tanda; You will yet be going to love.

17. The negative is formed by inserting sa between the negative prefix of the verb and the root; as:

Andi sa tandi; I do not love any more.
Bendinga sa tandi; I was not loving any more.
Ani sa ku tanda; You will not love any more.

In the future tenses, the negative forms in which sa is inserted will be seen under each tense; and wherever sa is found in a negative prefix, it gives the sense of the action of the verb having ceased, or that it will have ceased at some particular time mentioned; as:

Andi sa ku ba di tanda; I shall not be loving any more.
Da di bendinga sa ku ba dibë di tanda; I should or would not have loved any more.
Wa u beunga sa ku ba u beu tanda; Thou wouldest not have loved any more.

18. When I love: This is expressed by prefixing the forms in the past indefinite tense indicative mood, to the infinitive of the verb, the initial u being dropped; as:

When I love or loved, &c.

The above forms are used with the perfect and past participial forms of the verb, by prefixing da, wa, &c. to ukuba.

- Da ku ba di hlulile; When I had passed.
- A ku ba e hlulile; When he had passed.
- Ba ku ba, be be hlulile; When they had passed.
- Na ku ba, na hlula; When you passed.

Sometimes the following forms are used; as:—

- Da kwaku ba di bendi hlula; When I was passing.
- A kwaku ba e hlule; When he had passed.
- Sa kwaku ba si hlule; When we had passed.

19. I will never love: This is expressed by the following forms:—

- Andi sozi di tande.
- Aku sozi u tande.
- Aka sozi e tande.

20. I used to love, or I am accustomed to love, is expressed in the present imperfect and present perfect tenses, by prefixing fudula to those tenses; as:—

- Fudula di tanda,
- Fudula di tandile,

The other past tenses are formed by prefixing the
THE KAFFIR LANGUAGE.

verbal prefixes of those tenses to the above forms;
as:—

Di bendi fudula di tanda; I was being accustomed to love.
Di bendi fudula di tandle; I had been accustomed to love.

21. It seems as if: Gati is used to express this form; as:—

Gati uya hamba; It seems as if you were walking.
Gati so tanda; It seems as if we should love.

It is probable, or probably: Gaba is used here; as:—

Gaba wo fika; Probably he will arrive.
Gaba dibe di posisile; Probably I had mistaken.
Gaba sa posisa; Probably we mistook.

"Gati" means, literally, It may be so. "Gaba" means, literally, It can be.

Both gati and gaba are used before the forms of nouns found in the first column of the table of nouns in Section III, No. 25, page 22; as:—

Gati lihashe; It seems as if it were a horse.
Gaba gumtu; It is probably a man, or it may or can be a man.
Gaba yenziwe gamahashe; Probably it is done by horses.
Gati zinkomo; It seems as if they were cattle.

22. To do a thing for the sake of doing it, without any adequate cause existing for its performance, is expressed by adding to the objective form of the verb the word, uzwe; as:—

Niya pikela uzwe; You contend for the sake of contending.
Siya hambela uzwe; We walk for the sake of walking.
Bandi gwebele uzwe; They have condemned me without cause.
23. Kukona is used before the present indefinite tense of the potential mood, with the particle yo affixed; thus:—

Kukona dinga vumayo; In consideration of that, (or, If you do so,) I will consent.
Kukona anga vumiyo; In consideration of that, he will not consent, or, that is the very reason why he will not consent.
Kukona banga vuyayo; In consideration of that, they will rejoice.

SECTION IX.

IRREGULAR AND VOWEL VERBS.

I. OF IRREGULAR VERBS.

1. An irregular verb is one which has but one syllable following uku, the sign of the infinitive, and prefixes yi to that syllable in forming the second person of the present imperfect tense of the imperative mood; as:—

Uku va; To hear.
Yi-va; Hear.
Yi-va ni; Hear ye.
Uku ba; To steal.
Yi-ba; Steal.
Yi-ba ni; Steal ye.

2. It will be quite unnecessary to give a separate paradigm of an irregular verb in all its moods and tenses, as the following rules will be amply sufficient to guide the student.

Rule I. The syllable following uru, the sign of the infinitive, is the root of the verb; and in each mood the participles and the imperfect tenses, both present, past, and future, are formed by inserting is between the affirmative prefixes and the root of the irregular verb; as:——

Participles.
Di si-va; I hearing.
E si-va; He hearing.
Be si-va; They hearing.

Present Imperfect Tense.
Di si-va; I hear.
U si-va; Thou hearest.
Ni si-va; You hear.

Past Imperfect Tense.
Be be si-va; They were hearing.
Ebe si-va; He was hearing.

Future Imperfect Tense.
Diya ku ba di si-va; I shall be hearing.
Baya ku ba be si-va; They will be hearing.

Rule II. All the prefixes which in the conjugation of a regular verb end in α, have that vowel changed into e in the conjugation of irregular verbs which have roots commencing in v, z, h, or m; as:——

Diye va; I hear: not, diya va.
Diye za; I am coming: not, diya za.
Baye ma; They stand: not, baya ma.
Niye hla; You descend: not, niya hla.
II. OF VOWEL VERBS.

1. A vowel verb is one which has uku as the sign of the infinitive, followed by a vowel, and prefixes y to that vowel in forming the second person of the present imperfect tense of the imperative mood; as:—

Ukw oyika; To fear.
Yoyika; Fear.
Yoyika ni; Fear ye.

2. The vowels which follow uku, the sign of the infinitive, are, a, e, and o; as:—

Ukw aka; To build.
Ukw enza; To make.
Ukw oyika; To fear.

3. The root of vowel verbs is the verb without the sign of the infinitive uku; as:—

Aka, from uku aka.
Enza, from uku enza.
Oyika, from uku oyika.

4. In conjugating vowel verbs, the following rules must be attended to:—

Rule I. In conjugating regular verbs, all the verbal prefixes end in vowels, these vowels are dropped in the conjugation of a vowel verb, and the vowels which commence the root of the verb, whether a, e, or o, used in their place; as:—

Diy' aka; I build.
Diy' enza; I make.
Bay' oyika; They fear.

And' aki; I build not.
And' enzi; I make not.
Ab' oyiki; They fear not.
5. Exceptions to the above rule:

(1.) When the accusative of the pronoun is inserted in the vowel verb, the vowel of the accusative, and not that of the prefix, is dropped; as:—

(Dec.)
II. Diya l-o'yika; I fear it.
III. Baya y-o'yika; They fear it.
IV. Baya ku s-enza; They will do it.

(2.) In the participial forms of the verb, and the imperfect tenses, both present, past, and future, the letter $s$ is inserted between the vowel which terminates the prefix in the regular verb, and the vowel commencing the vowel verb; as:—

Participles.

Di $s$-aka; I building.
E $s$-aka; He building.
Be $s$-aka; They building.

Imperfect Tenses.

Di $s$-aka; I build.
U $s$-enza; He makes.
Si $s$-oyika; We fear.
Di bendi $s$-aka; I was building.
U beu $s$-aka; He was building.
Diya ku ba di $s$-aka; I shall be building.
Baya ku ba be $s$-aka; They will be building.

Rule II. Those prefixes which in the regular verb end in the vowel $u$, in vowel verbs have that termination changed into $u$; as:—
GRAMMAR OF

REGULAR VERB.
Diya ku tanda.

VOWEL VERB.
Diya kw-enza; I shall make.
Diya kw-oyika; I shall fear.
W-akile; He has built.
W-enzile; Thou hast made.
Akw-akanga; Thou didst not build.

(DECL.)
VI. Aw-akanga; It did not build.
VII. Akw-enzanga; It did not make.

6. Exceptions to Rule II:
(1.) The participle forms of the verb, and the imperfect tenses, (as will be seen by the second exception to Rule I,) are exceptions to this rule.
(2.) In the negative prefixes which end in u in the regular verb, declension VII. changes the vowel u, with which it terminates, into the vowel commencing the root of the vowel verb; as:—

(DECL.)
VII. Ab-akanga; It did not build.
... Ab-enzanga; It did not make.
... Ab-oyikanga; It did not fear.

7. As in the regular verb the present perfect tense is used, when vowel neuter verbs are used adjectively; as:—

(DECL.)
II. Lo mile izulu; The heaven is dry.
III. Yo mile intonga; The stick is dry.
... Ya lupele londoda; That man is decayed.
VI. Wo mile umhlaba; The ground is dry.
&c. &c.
THE KAFFIR LANGUAGE.

IMPERSONAL FORMS OF THE VERB.

1. The impersonal form of the verb will be found under each tense, being the form used for declension VIII.; as:—

INDICATIVE MOOD.

Present Indefinite Tense.

Kuya tanda; There loves, or it loves.

Past Indefinite Tense.

Kwa tanda; There loved, or it loved.

2. The impersonal form of the verb is used in Kaffir, where in English the words it and there are used in an indefinite sense; as:—

Ku yana imvula; It rains.
Ku shushu; It is warm.
Kwa tiwa; It was said.
Kwa kube kuko umtu; There was a man.
Aku lungile; It is not right.
Kungeko uncedo; There not being help.
Aku naluto; It does not signify, literally, it has nothing.
Ku jalo; It is so.
Aku jalo; It is not so.
Kuya ku banjwa; It will be caught.
Kuya ku ba ku tiwa; It will be said.

3. In some cases where in English the impersonal form of the verb is used, it is not used in Kaffir; as:—

Di bendi dimi o wa tetayo; It was I who spoke.
Uya ku ba guwe o ya ku teta; It will be thou who wilt speak.
Dimi o tetileyo; It is I who have spoken.
4. The tenses of the verb are used before the form of nouns found in column the third, of the table of nouns, Section III, page 22, No. 25. When thus used, they are used in the sense of the verb to have; but are literally, "I am with," "Thou wilt be with," &c. When the negative is used, the initial vowel of the noun is changed into a; as:—

Di nehashé; I have a horse;
Andi nahashé; I have no horse.
Uya ku ba nomtu; Thou wilt have a person.
Aku yi ku ba namtu; Thou wilt have no person.
Dibe di noncedo; I had help.
Dibe dinga nancedo; I had no help.
Be netyalæ; They having guilt.
Benge natyalæ; They not having guilt.

5. The tenses are used in the same manner before adjectives; as:—

Di-mkulu; I am great.
Andi-mkulu; I am not great.
Uya ku ba-mkulu; Thou wilt be great.
Aku yi ku ba-mkulu; Thou wilt not be great.
Baya ku ba-mhlope; They will be white.
Amahashe aya ku ba-myama; The horses will be black.

The tenses are also prefixed to the forms of nouns found in column the first of the table of nouns, Section III, page 22, No. 25.

3. Of Conjunctions: Nouns are joined conjunctively, by using the forms in the third column of the table of nouns, section III., page 22, No. 25, for the second noun; thus:—

Ihashe nenkomo; A horse and cow.
Umtu nehashe; A man and horse.

4. Verbs are joined in the present and future time by, for the second verb using the apocopated form of the present perfect tense indicative mood, the third person singular, declension I., taking X for its prefix; thus:—

Wo ya a kangele; He will go and look.
Boya ba buye; They will go and look.
Hlanani ni tete; Sit ye and talk.
Suya ku hlala, sonwabe; We shall sit and enjoy ourselves.

5. In the past indefinite tense both verbs are placed in that tense; as:—

Da ya Da kangela.

6. The disjunctive conjunction "or" is expressed by the word umblaumbi, "perhaps;" thus:—

Tabata e li hashe, umblaumbi elo; Take this horse or (perhaps) that.

k 2
Ma si hambe ga lenthlela umhlaambi ku le; Let us travel by this road or (perhaps) by that.

2. Nouns which follow prepositions take kw before their prefix; thus:—

Pezu kwomhlabâ; Upon the ground.
Kamva kwexesha; After the time.

3. The following are the principal prepositions:—

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Preposition</th>

5. Ra is sometimes added to adjectives with the sense of the English syllable ish:—

Into i bomvura; The thing is reddish.
THE KAFFIR LANGUAGE.

Ra is also added to the abstract form of nouns with the sense of "a little:" when thus used, the verbal prefixes precede the noun in the same manner as in No. 5. (On the use of ukuba):—

U nobukosira; He has a little captainship.
Ba mobulumkora; They have a little wisdom.
Wo ba nobukosira.

INTERJECTIONS.

6. The interjections are—

Mawo! Wonderful! Oh! Yo! Au! He! E!

Examples of the use of the different forms of the Personal Pronoun.

The following examples of the use of the different forms of the pronoun were omitted in the grammar; but as they are calculated to facilitate the use of the pronouns in practice they are given here:—
(More extended examples will be given of the personal pronouns as connected with the verb.)

1. Nominative Case, No. 1.

When this nominative is used in connexion with adjectives, it gives emphasis to the same, and, moreover, distinguishes the pronoun from others; as:—

PER.       SING.
1. Dimkulu mina; I am great I. (Implying that none are greater.)
2. Umkulu wena; Thou art great thou.

(DEC.)
3. I. Umkulu yena; He is great he.
    II. Likulu lona; It is great it.
    III. Inkulu yona; It is great it.

&c. &c. &c.

Nominative, No. 2.

These forms are used as the pronominal prefix of the adjective and verb. They will be seen prefixed to each tense of the verb, and also to the adjectives preceded by the relative pronoun, in the table of proper adjectives.

2. Genitive Case.

The forms of the genitive are used, with the euphonic letter of the noun preceding the genitive case of the pronoun prefixed, for the formation of the possessive pronouns; as:—
(Dec.)

I. Umtu \textit{wake}; His man, (referring to a person.)
III. Ihashe \textit{layo}; Its horse.
IV. Inkosi \textit{gaso}; Its captain.
&c. &c.

Here it will be observed, that \textit{ake} is the genitive of declension I., \textit{ayo} that of declension III., and \textit{aso} that of declension IV.; the \textit{v} before \textit{ake} is the euphonic letter of umtu, \textit{l} before \textit{ayo} is that of ihashe, and \textit{y} before \textit{aso} is that of inkosi; \textit{umtu}, \textit{ihashe}, and \textit{inkosi} being the nouns preceding the forms of the genitive, and governing them in the possessive case.

3. Dative Case.

The dative is used in forming the comparative of adjectives; as:

Dimkulu \textit{kuye, kulo, kuyo, kuso, kulo, &c.}; I am greater than he, it, &c.

The reason of the dative being used in this formation, is, that, rendered literally, the above sentences would stand thus: "I am great to him," "it," &c.

This case is also used in the sense of "with," preceded by nouns and the nominative No. 2; as:

\textit{Lo 'nto i kume}; That thing is with thee.
\textit{E zi zinto azi ko kumi}; These things are not with me.
\textit{Ukuxolelwa kwezono zi kuye U-Tixo}; Forgiveness of sins is with God.

4. The Accusative Case.

The accusative is always inserted in the verb, between the verbal prefix and the root of the verb.

Sometimes the ablative No. 4, and No. 3, are joined together; as:—

Guye nami; It is he and I.
Dimi nabo; It is I and they.
&c. &c.

5. Exercises on the personal and demonstrative Pronouns.

1. What is the effect produced by the use of the nominative No. I. when used with adjectives?
   In which of the persons and declensions do the nominative No II. and the accusative case take the same forms, and in which do they differ?
   How are the possessive pronouns formed?
   How are they formed when emphasis is required?
   Which case of the personal pronoun is used in the comparison of adjectives?
   How is the nominative No. 2 used?
   Repeat the demonstrative pronouns according to each declension of nouns.
   How are the phrases, "the same," "it is it," and "it is even it," expressed in Kaffir.
   In what manner is "whose," the genitive of "who or which," usually expressed in Kaffir?
   Give a few examples.
   Repeat the forms often prefixed to the noun immediately following "whose," according to the different declensions.
   In how many different ways can "whom or which," the accusative of the relative pronoun, be expressed?
   Wherein do these ways differ?
   How many exceptions exist to the general rules for forming "whom or which?"
   Name them.
What forms are used for expressing, "Of, by, through, in, from, to whom, or which?"
Repeat the tables No. 16 and 17, Section V.

Into di m lindela yena; The thing for which I wait.
6. Exercises on the Genitive of Who or Which.

Supply the requisite forms to express whose in the following sentences:—

Umtu uhlu inkulu; A man (whose) house is great.
Isicako misebenzi mikulu; A servant (whose) work is great.
Ihashe mendu makulu; A horse the speed (of which) is great.
Inkosi bantu baninzi; A captain (whose) people are numerous.
Abantu kwazi kukulu; People (whose) knowledge is great.
Umlambo manzi a namanhla; A river (whose) waters are strong.
Inkomo mabala a bomvu; Cattle the colour (of which) is red.

The remark made at page 205, as introductory to the examples there given, is equally applicable to those which follow here:—

Examples of the Personal Pronouns connected with the Verb.

1. The nominative case. The nominative case No. 1 follows the verb thus:—

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>PERS.</th>
<th>SING.</th>
<th>PLU.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1.</td>
<td>Diya hamba mina;</td>
<td>Siya hamba tina;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>I go I.</td>
<td>We go we.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.</td>
<td>Uya hamba mena;</td>
<td>Niya hamba nina;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>thou goest thou.</td>
<td>Ye go ye.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

(Dec.)

3. I. | Uya hamba yena; | IX. | Baya hamba bona; | They go they. |
|      | He goes he.     |     |                  |

... II. | Liya hamba lona; | X.  | Aya hamba wona;  | They go they. |
|        | It goes it.     |     |                  |
| &c.    |                  | &c.  |                  |

When the nominative No. 1. thus follows the verb, it gives emphasis to the assertion, and distinguishes the person of noun referred to from others; as:—
Nangona abanye bangs mkon ziyo U-Tixo, diya ku m konza mina; Notwithstanding that others serve not God, I will serve him I.

Andi sa yi kuvuma mina, napakade; I will never consent I. (Implying that it is my fixed purpose, from which I will never swerve, not to consent.)

2. The nominative No. 1. is also used when two nouns, or a noun and a pronoun, are spoken of in the same sentence, having the same forms of the nominative No. 2., to point out with precision to which person or noun the action of the verb is referred; as:

Sa suka nesicaka, kodwa sa buya sino enheleni; We started with the servant, but he returned in the path.

Sa suka nesicaka, kodwa sa buya tina enheleni; We started with the servant, but we returned in the path.

3. It will have been observed that the nominative No. 2. is prefixed to the verb in all its tenses.

4. The genitive case is not used in connection with the verb.

5. Dative case; this case is used in Kaffir in the sense of with after neuter verbs used adjectively; as:

Di qumbile kuwe; I am angry with thee.

6. The accusative is inserted in the verb thus:—

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>PERS.</th>
<th>SING.</th>
<th>PLU.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1.</td>
<td>Uya di tanda; He............</td>
<td>Uya si tanda; He'</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>loves me.</td>
<td>loves us.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.</td>
<td>Uya ts tanda; He............</td>
<td>Uya ni tanda; He</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>loves thee.</td>
<td>loves you.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
It is thus inserted in all the tenses between the prefix and the verb; as:

Di ya ku m tanda; I shall or will love him.
Wa m tanda; He loved him.
Ba di tanda; They loved me.
Di bendi li tanda; I was loving it.
Andi ba tandanga; I did not love them.

7. Ablative case No. 1. is used after passive verbs and the present perfect tense of neuter verbs used adjectively, meaning it is done by it, by me, &c.; as:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>PERS.</th>
<th>SING.</th>
<th>PLU.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1.</td>
<td>Uya betwa dimi; He is ..........</td>
<td>Uya betwa siti; He is beaten by me.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.</td>
<td>Uya betwa gume; He is ..........</td>
<td>Uya betwa nini; He is beaten by thee.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
(Dec.) 3. I. Uya betwa guye; He is ... IX. Uya betwa babo; He beaten by him. is beaten by them.
... II. Uya betwa lilo; He is ... X. Baya betwa gamo; They beaten by it. are beaten by thee. &c. &c.

8. No. 2 is distinguished in its use from No. 1, by No. 1. being used when the pronoun or antecedent is the actor. No. 2. is used when the action is performed in consequence of, or on account of, the pronoun or antecedent, or when the antecedent is merely an agent employed by another who is the actor; as:—

1

Yenzwa lilo; It done by it. Yenzwa galo; It is done in consequence of, or through, it.
Ku biwe siso isicaka; It is stolen by the servant.

2

Si bulawa lilo ihashe; We are killed by the horse.
Si bulawa galo ihashe; We are killed on account of the horse.
Si necolile ziso izono zetu; We are defiled by our sins.
Si netyala gazo izono zetu; We are guilty in consequence of our sins.

N.B. As the above is a very nice distinction, and yet necessary to be well understood, and strictly attended to in practice; the learner will do well to pay particular attention to it.

9. The ablative No. 2. is also used after an active verb in the sense of respecting, or concerning, a person or thing; as:—
Siya teta gaye; We speak of, or respecting, him.
Uya teta gallo ihashe; He is speaking respecting a horse.
Siya pikisana gayo leyo' nto; We are contending concerning that thing.

10. The relative pronoun can here be prefixed to the verb, according to the rules, pages 42 and 43 of the Grammar, but the accusative is not inserted; as:

(DEC.)
I. Umtu a teta gaye; The man of whom he speaks.
II. Ilizwi u teta gallo; The word of which thou speakest.
III. Inkosi e di bendi teta gayo; The captain of whom I was speaking.
IV. Isiyu aya ku betwa gaso; The basket respecting which he will be beaten.
V. Usana o lu da teta gallo; The infant that, of whom I spoke.
VI. Umti lowo da pikisana nawe gawo; The tree that, respecting which I contended with thee.
&c. &c. &c.

11. No. 3. This form is used for “with,” when the noun or pronoun referred to is a joint agent with another in the action of the verb, implying that the action of the verb is performed conjointly, or at the same time, by both the parties mentioned; as:

Siya hamba nani; We walk with you.
Nlya hlala nati; Ye sit with us.
Ba besi hla nati; They were eating with us.
Siya sele nabo; We drink with them.

It (No. 3) is likewise used when “also” follows a verb; as:
Siya tanda nati; We love also.
Si lumkile nati; We are wise also.
Ihashe la beli ko nalo; The horse was there also.

12. It is used for the conjunction "and," when two pronouns, or a noun and pronoun, are united; as:—

Wena nami; Thou and I.
Mina naye; I and thou.
Bona nalo; They and it.
Wo hamba wena nabo; Thou wilt go and they also.
Sa si bona tina, nabo; We saw and they also.
So fa tina, nabo bonke abantu; We and all people shall die.
Isicaka nabo; The servant and they.
Abantu nami si besi hamba; The people and I were walking.

Examples of the use of the Relative Pronoun as connected with the Verb.

1. The relative pronoun is only prefixed to verbs in the third person. When thus prefixed, the present imperfect tense of the indicative mood is used for the present or any indefinite time, the particle yo being affixed to the verb.

2. If the nominative of the pronoun No. 2. (which is prefixed to the verb) commence with a vowel, or consist of a vowel only, that vowel is dropped, and the relative pronoun used in its place; but if the nominative commence with a consonant, the relative pronoun is prefixed; as:—

(DEC.)

I. Yena, o hambayo; He who walks, or umtu o hambayo.
II. Lona e li hambayo; It which walks, or ihashe e li hambayo.
III. Yona e hambayo; It which walks, or inkomo e hambayo.
VI. Wona o hambayo; It which walks, or umtu o hambayo.

&c. &c.
EXERCISES ON

Ihashe e la hambayo; The horse which walked.
Isitya e si besi hlanziwe; The basket which was washed.
Into eya kucelwa; The thing which will be asked for.

3. To express the relative pronoun in the first and second persons, the tenses of the verb are used without any alteration taking place in the nominative No. 2, but the nominative No. 1 is prefixed to all the tenses, and in the past and present imperfect tenses the particle yo is affixed; as:

Mina di hambayo; I who walk.
Wena wa hambayo; Thou who didst walk.
Tina besi hambayo; We who were walking.
Nina niya ku hamba; You who will walk.

4. Sometimes in the first and second persons the ablative No. 1. is placed before the verb, and then the relative pronoun of the third person is prefixed to the tense of the verb; as:

Dimi o hambayo; It is I who walk.
Gume o hambayo; It is thou who walkest.
Sili e siya ku tanda; It is we who shall love.
Ni beni nina, e ni beni hambayo; It was you who were walking.
Ubu guwe o wa tetayo; It was thou who talkedst.
Ebe guye o wa ye tetayo; It was he who was talking.

5. When the ablative No. 1. is preceded by the prefixes of the past imperfect tenses, the verbal prefix of the third person of the past indicative tense is prefixed to the verb; as:

Di be di dimi o wa hambayo; It was I who walked.
Si be si siti a ba tetayo; It was we who talked.
Of "Whose," the Genitive of the Relative Pronoun, when connected with Verbs.

1. The forms found in No. 13, section V., page 42, of the Grammar, are used in connexion with the verb, in the same manner as when preceding adjectives; but the accusative of the pronoun of the same declension as the noun immediately following "whose," is inserted in the verb, and the particle yo affixed to the past and present perfect and imperfect tenses; as:—

(DEC.)

I. Umtu onkosi di yi tandayo; A man, whose captain I love.
II. Isashe elinyau di ya ku zi bona; A horse, whose feet I will see.
III. Inkosi ebantu u ba ziyo; A captain, whose people you know.
